REGULATION OF BUSINESS TO INCREASE

Prime Minister Says More Supervision to Enter Canadian Affairs

CANADA WILL NOT REPUDIATE DEBTS

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP).—A little politics, a great deal of humor and a serious declaration that more and more regulation of business by governments would enter into Canadian affairs, were contained in a brief address by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett before the annual banquet of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada here, tonight.

Mr. Bennett, long an honorary member of the association, attended as a guest and spoke briefly after Sir Robert Falconer had urged the establishment of a more aggressive Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Canada.

The Prime Minister, who is Canada's Minister of External Affairs, did not allude to the suggestion of Sir Robert for a "full time" minister of foreign affairs, but discussed, in a partly humorous vein, the "experiments" urged by Canon Shatford.

STILL EXPERIMENTING
"I have been making experiments for the last four years," said Mr. Bennett, "and I haven't got over some of them yet." The early explorers found a practically desert country, he said. Now they would find the railway problem, a huge national debt and a highly-developed civilization with a settled form of government.

"Not heaven itself can change the past—what has been," the Prime Minister quoted. Experiences of the past were not encouraging to experiment. One could only draw inferences from the past and chart a course based on the knowledge it gave.

TO AWAIT END OF NAVAL PACT

U.S. Delegates Plan to Bring Talks to Close When Japan Denounces Treaty

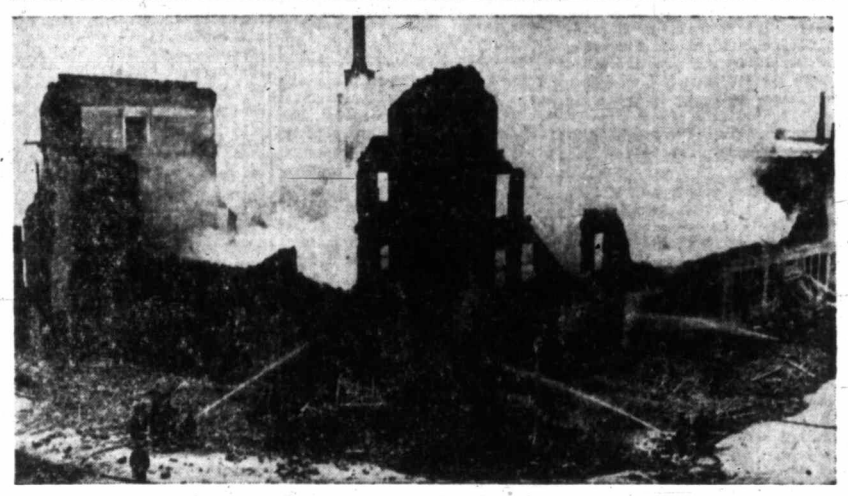

LONDON, Dec. 14 (CP).—The United States delegation to the naval conversations stood firm today on their plan of bringing the talks to an end the day Japan denounces the 1922 Washington naval treaty.

The extended talks, already unofficially terminated, have shown fundamental differences in the goals sought by Britain, the United States and Japan. Efforts now are being made by the various delegates to end them in such a way that responsibility for the breakdown will not fall on themselves.

EXPECTED NEXT WEEK

A British proposal for formal adjournment of the conference won Japanese approval, but subsequently the Americans announced that they planned to remain until Japan actually denounces the Washington treaty and the 5-5-3 ratio it established. This step was expected to take about December 20. The American view was that this would place the blame for the break-up of the parleys on the Japanese.

Italo-Abyssinian Dispute Taken to League's Council

Ethiopian Government Charges Italians With Aggression in Recent Border Clashes and Calls Attention to Gravity of Situation—Somali-Land Frontier Not Clearly Defined

GENEVA, Dec. 14 (AP).—A new complication—the friction between Italy and Ethiopia in Africa—was called to the attention of the League of Nations Council, tonight. The Government of His Majesty Emperor Haile Selassie at Addis Ababa telegraphed the council to give the African Power's version of recent border clashes in which both Italian and Abyssinian forces suffered casualties, and to say:

DUKE WELCOMED TO NEW ZEALAND

Great Throngs Greet Royal Visitor at Wellington—To Spend Christmas at Auckland

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Dec. 14 (CP via Reuters).—The Duke of Gloucester, son of Their Majesties, reached New Zealand, today, and received an enthusiastic reception. The royal visitor landed here, from Brisbane, to be met by large throngs of people, including many who came from the provinces on special trains and excursion steamers.

The Duke will spend Christmas at Government House in Auckland. In January he is scheduled to visit the south island and later will proceed to Fiji and Samoa.

GIVE A JOB

HOUSEHOLDERS wishing to make arrangements for extra help on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day are asked to place their orders immediately with the Victoria Branch of the Employment Service of Canada, so that adequate time may be afforded for the selection of suitable workers. Women to mind children while parents shop, to help in the decoration of homes, the preparation of guest rooms, serve at table, or wash up afterwards, can be secured on either day, if arrangements are made now. Telephone Empire 1931 in this connection. Eight days remain in which those wishing to create part-time work at Christmas can do so in time to be of assistance to many men and women anxious for these jobs. The bureau's office telephone is Garden 2411, for men. The gift of a job is a present for the whole community.

GET CLUE TO STOCK THEFT

First of Big Block Stolen in September Comes on Market

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP).—With the transfer here of 500 shares of Noranda Mines stock, police tonight believed they had a "lead" on a $90,000 security theft which has baffled New York investigators since September.

Search was under way tonight for a St. Catherine's man from whom a firm of Toronto brokers is said to have received 500 of 2,600 shares of Noranda stock, currently valued at $66,700. The 2,600-share block, with $3,000 worth of Costa Rica bonds and $500 Province of Manitoba bond, were stolen from the New York office of the Bank of Nova Scotia in September.

FORGED ENDORSEMENT

One of the 500 shares said to have come from St. Catharines was sent to the Chartered Trust & Executor Company here for registration. Officials found an owner's endorsement had been forged on the back of the certificate together with a broker's guarantee of the signature.

Ontario Aviator Completes Five Errands to Aid Stricken in One Week

HUDSON, Ont., Dec. 14 (CP).—Pilot Ethan Crann, of the Northern Transportation Company, has completed his fifth flight in a week of errands of mercy, something of a record for flights of this nature.

Yawns Continue But Are Now Fewer to the Minute

ROUND GROVE, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP).—Mrs. Harold McKee cut down her yawn-per-minute rate to eight this evening. It was the first encouraging sign since the thirty-five-year-old farm wife began her strange, involuntary marathon of yawning at 4 o'clock last Sunday afternoon.

Ship's Captain Sends Story of Heroism in Raging Atlantic Gale

Eight Men Lose Their Lives When Rescuing Boat Is Swamped

ELEVEN SURVIVORS SAFELY TAKEN OFF

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 15 (AP).—The master of the Ss. Ascania advised offices of the Cunard-White Star Line today that fifteen members of the crew of the disabled British steamer Usworth were lost during rescue operations. The fourth officer and a member of the crew of the rescue ship Jean Jodot also were lost. The Ascania reported it had rescued nine of the Usworth's crew and that the Jean Jodot, a Belgian liner, had rescued two.

By CAPTAIN SADIE GONTHIER. Of the Belgian Liner Jean Jodot. (Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

SS. JEAN JADOT, Dec. 14 (By Wireless).—Sorry, but I'm too tired to write a long story. The Jean Jodot, Belgian liner, was endeavoring to tow the British Usworth, disabled at sea on a voyage from Montreal—her steering gear smashed hopelessly. Yesterday noon we fell in a most exceptionally severe storm, during which it blew at hurricane force and during which our cargo shifted. We were parted for ten hours when a message came for help. The Usworth then was totally wrecked on deck and the crew had to be taken off at the earliest. Although the sea had not abated much, we launched a boat with volunteers while the Ss. Ascania sprayed fuel oil all around.

BOAT IS SWAMPED

The boat got safely alongside the wreck, but when she had embarked only eight men she was swamped. The boat got afoul of the cargo derricks hanging over the side and drifted away. One big wave capsized the boat and all occupants were thrown into the water and fuel oil.

We managed to rescue eight of our own men and two from the Usworth. Later the Ascania took off the remaining survivors. The weather was still bad when everything was finished.

TWO COURTS TO BE HELD NEXT MARCH

LONDON, Dec. 14 (CP).—For the first time in his reign the King will hold two jubilee celebrations of his Majesty's accession to the throne. The first will be held in May. To more courts will be held in June, as is customary. A high court official at Buckingham Palace said tonight that evening courts had never before been held in March.

THE NAZI SALUTE

After lifting his hand in the Nazi salute over the torn and broken bodies of the dead, Hitler himself helped to pick up the scattered remains.

A major catastrophe was averted only because the train fortunately remained on the track. The heavy bus was completely demolished. The accident occurred when the driver of the auto-bus, blinded by fog and dusk, drove through lowered crossing gates on to the track near Verden, to be struck by the fast-traveling express train.

NOTES DISAPPEAR WITHOUT A TRACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—The strange disappearance of $500,000 in United States Treasury notes ten minutes after they had been placed in a trust company's cage mystified police, tonight.

The fourteen notes were brought to the trust company from the First Boston Corporation, and were left on a desk in the security cage. Ten minutes later they were gone.

SEEKS REMOVAL OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP).—District Attorney Burton Pitts was indicted, tonight, on twenty-one charges of misconduct. His removal from office was requested by the county grand jury.

Pitts and his sister, Mrs. Bertha Gregory, who also is his secretary, previously had been indicted for perjury in connection with statements they made during an investigation of his office by the 1933 grand jury.

Man on High Scaffolding Plucks Falling Friend From Mid-Air

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP).—If there is a man who can say he has been snatched from certain death, that man is Frank Williams, diminutive worker on the reconstruction of the Thorncliffe ski jump here.

Williams slipped and fell from a scaffolding eighty feet above the ground today. Below him fifteen feet, Herman Bautzmann, stout of arm and almost half as big again as Williams, was perched on a plank. As Williams hurtled downward, Bautzmann, hearing the man's shriek of despair, reached out and caught him. Though unnerved by the shock of his narrow escape, Williams was unhurt.

Southern Flood Recedes Without Serious Damage

Three Hundred Residents of Montrose Able to Return to Homes After Sudden Danger Passes—Recent Improvements Credited With Preventing Heavy Losses

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP).—Flood waters a half-mile wide swept La Cresenta Valley, today, as a climax to the heaviest Southern California rainfall in forty-five years. At Montrose, where thirty persons drowned in last New Year's flood, many of the 300 residents fled their homes, only to return tonight as the threat of danger dissipated.

HITLER'S TRAIN KILLS THIRTEEN

Special Carrying German Chancellor Cuts Bus to Pieces at Crossing

BREMEN, Dec. 14 (AP).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's life was imperiled tonight when his special train, en route from Bremen to Berlin, roared into an auto-bus near here, instantly killing thirteen persons.

A fourteenth died later in the hospital, to which the seven other passengers of the bus, all seriously injured, were taken. Those killed and injured were described as theatrical performers. Though rudely shaken by the crash, which occurred while his train was returning at high speed for christening ceremonies held at Bremen for the new 18,000-ton North German Lloyd liner, Hitler alighted from the train and walked the mile back up the track, where the demolished bus and the bodies lay.

ORPHAN INFANT IS SAFE AT MISSION

SHANGHAI, Dec. 15 (AP).—Little Helen Priscilla Stam, orphan infant daughter of two United States missionaries slain by Chinese bandits, was brought to Wuhu today, the China Inland Mission station here was informed.

The message said the little girl, who presumably was abducted with her parents, when an outlaw band pillaged the city of Taingteh, was in good health.

Sensational Charge In House of Lords Raises Brief Storm

Lord Chancellor Clears Situation After Defending Government's Proposal for Law Court Reform From Motive Imputed by Lord Chief Justice

LONDON, Dec. 14 (CP Cable).—After one of the greatest debates the House of Lords has seen since the war, prompted by sensational charges by Lord Chief Justice Hewart, of governmental interference with the judiciary, the Government tonight yielded to supporters of the Lord Chief Justice and promised that a contested clause of its High Court Bill would not be made applicable to any living Lord Justice.

PACKED WITH DRAMA

The debate was packed with drama. Lord Reading, a former Lord Chief Justice and Viceroy of India, demanded that the situation be cleared up satisfactorily and it was his suggestion that the clause be re-worded so as not to affect the seniority of any existing Lord Justices that eventually paved the way for a remarkable scene of reconciliation.

DEATH CLOSES BRIEF CAREER OF TERRORISM

Escaped Convict Found Dead in Washington After Alarming Countryside

WAS RELEASED FROM JAIL BY ACCOMPLICE

YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 14 (AP).—After four brief days of freedom, Martin Hogan, twenty-three, released from the County Jail, at Ellensburg, Sunday night, by an accomplice, who held up the jailer, was found, dead, in a stubble field, near Sunnyside, today.

In those four days, he kidnapped Clarence Farrell, Ellensburg theatre man; forced a farmer and his wife to hide Farrell and himself and the man who released him, on their farm, and was credited with robbing a middle-aged Croatian rancher and his wife, and with an attempt to hold up a traveling man, driving through Blewett Pass, in the Cascade Mountains.

FOUND BY RANCHER

A rancher, Francis Hart, found him, face upward, unseeing eyes staring at the sky. There was a bullet wound in his forehead, near the hair line, and another at the back of the head.

His right hand gripped a pistol, while an automatic lay at his side. Two shells of the weapon in his hand had been fired.

MAY HAVE BEEN SLAIN

Authorities were trying to determine definitely whether Hogan had taken his own life or whether he had been killed by the man who helped him break jail. The sheriff said, however, that the position of the body indicated "he shot himself and then slumped to the ground." He believed Hogan had been dead for twelve hours.

T. H. Eslick Asks Junior Chamber to Support Tourist Trade Development

"The movement now under way in connection with the Tourist Trade Development Association is destined to make a change in the whole of the Island's prosperity," T. H. Eslick, secretary of the organization, told members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, last night, at dinner in Speedie's Cafe, when he called for enthusiastic support for the movement.

"God has endowed this Island with everything to make it a perfect playground for tourists," Mr. Eslick declared. He went on to speak of the present tourist business enjoyed here, and paid high tribute to the work done by George L. Warren and the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, saying great and extensive work had been done with very little money. According to the speaker, for every cent spent by the bureau in bringing visitors to Victoria, one dollar had been returned.

SUGGESTS NEEDS

One important side to the tourist industry had been overlooked, however, Mr. Eslick stated. He said Victoria was in much the same position as the host who sent out dinner invitations in gilt-edged envelopes to many guests and after receiving them, forgot to lay the table.

JAPANESE HERE GIVEN MESSAGE

Shiojio Ohtani and Tetsujio Sasaki of Japan Greeted in Victoria

Bringing a message of greeting from Japan to the local Japanese colony, Shiojio Ohtani, lineal relation to Count Koshio Ohtani, patriarch of the Honpa Honganji, arrived in Victoria, from Vancouver, yesterday afternoon, with a party of Buddhist priests. They were met by a delegation at the boat.

Shiojio Ohtani's visit to America is on the occasion of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the introduction of Buddhism on this continent. Today, there are 10,000 Buddhists in British Columbia, it is said.

He is accompanied by Tetsujio Sasaki, of the Honpa Honganji, of Kyoto, Japan; Bishop Kenji Masuyama, of the Buddhist mission at San Francisco, and Rev. Seisho Ishiguro, of the Buddhist mission in Vancouver.

The party plans to leave for Up-Island, today, to carry its message to Japanese in Chemainus and Royston and to participate in services there.

FINDS HARMONY HERE
Shiojio Ohtani, in an interview at the Empress Hotel, yesterday, expressed his delight that Canadian and Japanese people live side by side in complete harmony. He also said he was pleased to see the sound manner in which the people lived in this country, there being not too much luxury enjoyed.

The visitor added that he was greatly awed by the grandeur of the Rocky Mountains and spent an enjoyable holiday at Banff. The party will leave the Island tomorrow, returning to Vancouver. From there they will, on Tuesday, proceed to Seattle, en route to San Francisco, and the two delegates from Japan will sail for home.

DEATH CLAIMS OLD RESIDENT

William McHugh, Here Since 1860, Passes Away—Funeral Service Monday

Funeral services for William McHugh, who passed away on Thursday, will be conducted at St. Andrew's Cathedral on Monday morning at 9 o'clock, the cortege leaving Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 8:45 a.m. Interment will be made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Born in Maraki, New Zealand, Mr. McHugh had been a resident of Victoria for the last seventy-four years. He was eighty-four years of age. Mr. McHugh is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Dooley, Victoria; four sons, Henry, Dierling, Wash, William, Victoria, Frank, Royston, and Edward, aboard R.M.S. Empress of Russia; one daughter, Mrs. Amy Harrison, Colwood, and six grandchildren.

1934 DINNER BIG SUCCESS

Annual Function of Army and Navy Veterans, Unit No. 12, Held Here

The annual dinner of the Army and Navy Veterans, Victoria Unit, No. 12, was held last night in the Chamber of Commerce and the 300 members and guests who attended voted it one of the best ever conducted by the local organization.

Among those present were officials of the Canadian Legion and other local ex-servicemen's bodies. Major T. R. Wheaton, president of the local Army and Navy unit, presided, and acted as toastmaster.

In replying to the toast to "Victoria," Mayor David Leeming pointed out that the local unit of the Army and Navy Veterans had done much to aid the needy of Victoria during the past year, some $2,400 having been spent in this work. The Mayor was confident that the veterans would "come through again" if the Dominion found itself in a pinch.

EDUCATION NEED

"We must educate our youth to disregard the dangerous propaganda that is being circulated if we are to remedy the present economic condition," declared Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Premier of British Columbia, in responding to the toast to "British Columbia."

He pointed out that a scheme of public works was essential if the self-respect of the young people was to be preserved. "We must find jobs for them so that once more they can find their place in society," he continued.

The Premier stated that, as in United States, Canada must place in the hands of the buying public billions of dollars to preserve the Dominion. Private capital had gone as far as it could, he declared.

Commander G. C. Jones, senior naval officer, representing the navy, was the first speaker in response to the toast to "The Army, Navy and Air Force."

"I agree with the Premier that the youth of today should be educated both inside and outside the navy. When you think of the navy, think of it in its broadest sense, to include the merchant marine and similar services."

ARMY CHANGING

Colonel H. C. Greer, representing Major-General E. C. Ashton, D.O.C., Military District No. 11, declared that with the changing times the army was changing too. He urged the veterans to preserve their sanity in this world, which is undergoing so many economic changes.

General Sir Percy Lake, grand president of the Canadian Legion, proposed the toast to the "Army and Navy Veterans in Canada." Major Wheaton responded. In his reply, Major Wheaton paid high tribute to the work of Frank Coles as chairman of the sick committee. Mr. Coles spoke briefly.

The toast to "Our Guests" was responded to by Captain the Rev. F. H. Buck. Rev. Glen Stevenson, Dominion convention chaplain, responded to the toast to "The Ladies' Auxiliary." Edward F. Fox replied to the toast to "The Press."

Entertainment was provided by Arthur Jackman, George Guy, Victoria Band of Accordion Players, H. Goodmurry, J. Anderson, W. Easton and Jerry Schofield.

FOUR ACTS

The fantasy is arranged in four acts, depicting different stages in the progress of the three kings toward Jerusalem. In the first, Balthasar is introduced as he is planning to go in search of the young Saviour. There are also introduced Ashtar, the Parthian girl, who is to commission Balthasar to bring her back some beautiful jewels when he returns from his journey; and Amrah, the Hebrew prophetess.

In the second scene the kings are shown in the desert, and at the desert inn with the Arab, Omar; and in the same scene occurs the meeting between Balthasar and his ancient enemy, Hemar, with whom a violent quarrel takes place. Damascus is the setting of the third scene, and a rough road outside Jerusalem of the fourth scene. By this time other aspect of Balthasar's character have been revealed in his merciful treatment of a beggar and a captive Jewish boy, whom he protects and takes along with him. The beautiful climax is the tableau round the Manger in Bethlehem, this introducing simultaneously the majority of the cast: Miss Jean Phillips, who played Gaspar; Miss Doris White, Melchior; Miss Velma Bastedo, the Hebrew prophetess; Miss Valeria Gouthro, as the Parthian girl, Ashtar; Miss Ruth McCaig, as the merchant Omar, and as the beggar; Miss Mavis Thompson, as his wife; Miss Margaret Parkes, as Balthasar's enemy, Hemar; Miss Elizabeth McLeod, as the Jewish boy, David; Miss Aileen Wright, Miss Dorothy Johns, and Miss Elizabeth Mutrie, as the street vendor, and first and second Arabs, respectively.

DRAMATIC VALUES

Each had a keen sense of dramatic values and the characterization was excellent throughout. Incidental music and readings added interest and variety to the entertainment, those contributing to this part of the performance being Miss Elizabeth McLeod, who recited a Scottish dialect piece called "Cuddle Doon," adding as an encore a number in Italian dialect; Miss Betty Slater, who sang most charmingly the old air, "Around the Manger," with Betty Broley as her accompanist; Miss Mildred Minette, who played as a piano solo Friml's "Drifting," and Miss Velma Bastedo, who, accompanied by Miss Minette, gave a delightful vocal number called "The Sunshine of Your Smile." Just prior to the final tableau, in which Miss M. Thompson took the role of the Virgin Mary, Miss E. Clapper that of Saint Joseph, and Misses Nellie Lawson and Ellen Tevini the parts of angels, Miss V. Gouthro recited lines of the Christmas Gospel.

MONGOL CAVALRYMEN IMPRISON JAPANESE

TOKIO, Dec. 15 (AP).—Mongol cavalrymen nominally attached to the Manchukuo army, garrisoned at Tseinkiatien, mutinied, today, and wounded and imprisoned several Japanese officials and residents, a dispatch to the newspaper Nichi Nichi, from Mukden, said today.

Japanese infantry and armored cars left Tungliiao, thirty miles to the west, to deal with the mutiny.

STRAINED RELATIONS

Two separate border incidents in the last two months have strained relations between the governments at Rome and Addis Ababa.

Vigorous diplomatic protests followed both incidents.

In November an armed group attacked the Italian Consulate at Gondar, near Lake Tana, killing one member of the Consulate Guard and wounding two. Italy, thereafter, asked and got apologies and indemnities.

Last week Italian native forces clashed with armed Abyssinians at the Italian outpost of Uahal, in Italian Somaliland. That, at least, was the Italian version. The Abyssinian Government claimed Italy's forces penetrated Ethiopian territory. Casualties totaled 140.

LOST 10 LBS. IN TWO MONTHS

Not too Old to Reduce at 50

Here is a letter which proves that there is no necessity to tolerate excessive fatness, even at the age of 50.

"I was becoming too fat after reaching 50, and had attacks of rheumatism and indigestion. I took ordinary salts and other medicines, but they did not do any permanent good. Then I commenced taking Kruschen. I soon began to feel different—brighter, stronger, had more energy, no rheumatism, and to my surprise, after two months I lost 10 pounds in weight, although I was eating much more, as digestion fullness had nearly left me."

—W.H.G.

The numerous vital salts in Kruschen stimulate and tune up the bodily functions from a number of different angles. Your stomach, liver and kidneys all feel the immediate benefit. Your blood is cleansed of impurities and becomes invigorated and refreshed. You forget indigestion, rheumatism and depression is a new and unaccustomed feeling of physical and mental exhilaration. (Advt.)

Conditions Definitely Better, States Visitor

Conditions are definitely better than they were three months ago, and there is an optimistic spirit in almost every section of the North American continent, according to H. W. Enthusiasm in the order is running high at the present time and membership is on the increase. Mr. Johnson added. He was a visitor at the Empress Hotel.

NURSES ACT IN NATIVITY PLAY

Pageant Fantasy Beautifully Presented at St. Ann's Academy Last Night

In the presence of a big audience that included the Rt. Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, Bishop of Victoria; Monsignor McGrath, apostolic delegate to the Chinese missions; the Rev. Mother Provincial, and a number of other clergy and Sisters of St. Ann and St. Joseph's Hospital, student nurses of the hospital, last evening, gave a charming and devout representation of Dorothy Clark Wilson's pageant fantasy of the first Christmas entitled "The Lost Star."

As the name implies, it is a story of "The Nativity," and introduces the three magi, Gaspar, Melchior and Balthasar. The last-mentioned was elevated to principal role, and was very intelligently and sympathetically played by Miss Louise Duggan, whose make-up was realistically masculine. All three magi, however, were most dignified figures, handsomely costumed, and with the other richly-colored dresses worn by the various Jewish, Parthian and Arab characters, some beautiful tableau effects were achieved. The staging and lighting, all very skillfully managed by the nurses with their sister directresses, were also admirably managed details.

OPERA SOCIETY HOLDS CONCERT

Schubert Choir and Soloists Provide Excellent Programme of Music

An enjoyable concert was held by the Victoria Operatic Society in its rehearsal hall last night, the programme of entertainment being arranged by a committee convened by Mrs. Georgina Watt.

The Schubert Club Choir opened the concert with a group of choral numbers, the first being Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song." The other two numbers of the group were compositions by Schubert, "Who Is Sylvia" and "Impatience." Frederick King was the conductor.

This group was followed by a double trio, which interpreted Mozart's "Moon Night" and Schubert's "Wild Rose." The choir then sang Cadman's "Little Papoose" and Rogers' "The Two Clocks."

Mrs. D. B. McConnan, soprano, sang "Il Bacio," by Arditelli, and "Yesterday, Today," by Spruce. Miss Pauline Wade gave a group of selected violin solos.

These solo groups were followed by two more choral numbers, "To Music," by Schubert, in which Mrs. Watt took the contralto solo, and "Song of the Sea," by W. Stebbins.

DANCING TURN

Miss "Matie" Griffin gave two dance numbers, an Indian dance and an acrobatic dance, followed by two soprano solos, "Valley of Laughter," by Saunders, and "Sunshine and Rain," by Blumenthal, sung by Mrs. Florence Noels.

Mrs. Watt and George Weston gave two duets, "Oh, Wet Thou in the Cauld Blast," by Mendelssohn, and "My Boat Is Waiting," by Smart. A group of selected baritone solos was rendered by Alex McGowan.

The double trio was heard again in Nellie Carew's "Pipes of Love," while Richard George, tenor, brought the programme to a close with "The Admiral's Broom." The accompanists were Miss Grace Allen, Miss Eileen Dumbleton and Chris Wade.

BUSINESS REGULATION TO BE INCREASED

the national debt and the railway obligations, the Prime Minister asked. Some would say to repudiate them. But to do that would be to sacrifice Canada's most valuable possession—a reputation of integrity and respect for contracts.

OPTIMISM AND HOPE

Paying a great tribute to the good work of travelling salesmen who, by the very nature of their work, spread optimism and hope throughout the country, the Prime Minister said they would have a part to play in the creation of a new and better-informed democracy.

Governments of the future would play an increasing part in the regulation of business, and those regulations would be formulated in Parliament. It was the duty of the electors to always give this problem thought and be prepared—not wait for a concentrated appeal to "passion and prejudice" on the eve of an election. Those passions and inherited prejudices were aroused only for one purpose—to mislead the people, Mr. Bennett declared.

Alistair Fraser, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, responded to the toast to the railways, a time-honored item on all annual banquet programmes of the association.

STRONGHOLD OF DEMOCRACY

Canada's position in the world as one of the greatest strongholds of democracy, its central geographic position and the very nature of its people led him to the belief that within a short time the Dominion would be forced to take a commanding position among the nations of the world, Sir Robert Falconer declared.

If Great Britain allied herself with Japan, Canada would be forced to take a stand as between the Orient, the United States and Great Britain.

"We must not allow ourselves to be crushed in by inherited hatreds," said Sir Robert. "The Pacific Ocean must not become for us a Europe." It was here that Sir Robert urged upon the Prime Minister and his audience that an aggressive and full-time ministry of foreign affairs was necessary to Canada's security and intelligent action.

Conditions are definitely better than they were three months ago, and there is an optimistic spirit in almost every section of the North American continent, according to H. W. Enthusiasm in the order is running high at the present time and membership is on the increase. Mr. Johnson added. He was a visitor at the Empress Hotel.

MONDAY SHOW WILL AID FUND

Christmas Hamper Drive by Gyros to Benefit From Evening at Theatre

The Gyro Club is confidently expecting 1,507 persons to occupy that many seats in the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday night, when the Home Oil Optimists, British Columbia's famous concert party, will present a programme to benefit the Gyro Club Christmas hamper fund.

The show will be attended by many Provincial and civic dignitaries, including Premier Pattullo. Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, who had subscribed to a box, will be unable to attend, but she has graciously consented to give her patronage to the affair.

TICKETS NOMINAL

Ticket sales will be at a nominal fee, although the Gyros are conducting an unusual drive to sell the boxes. Well-to-do Victorians are being approached to take a box at a price ranging from $10 to $100, or even more.

The entire proceeds of the show will be handed over to the Gyro campaign.

Frank C. Anders, master of ceremonies of the show and manager of the concert company, promises that twenty or more members of the Optimists and the orchestra will be in Victoria on Monday night for the show. "The boys and girls are all primed up ready for the Gyro show," Mr. Anders said yesterday.

The performance at the Royal will be broadcast over CFCT, and attention will be given to special requests. Incidentally, Bob Smith, who conducts the Gyro charity programmes over CFCT; William C. Hudson and Archie Willis will also be heard. Those in the theatre, of course, will see the "terrible three" in action as they ring up the donations.

Thomas McPherson, a member of the Gyro Club, has arranged for the appearance of the Optimists here.

Although the exact nature of the broadcast is a secret, Victorians are advised to listen in to tonight's Gyro programme over CFCT at 8:15 o'clock, immediately following The Colonist news flashes.

WILL AGAIN URGE USE OF CONCRETE

Junior Chamber of Commerce to Ask Government to Build Bridge With Local Product

The Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will send a second letter to the Provincial Government, urging the use, as far as possible, of British Columbia concrete in the building of the proposed bridge at New Westminster, across the Fraser River, and in any similar projects undertaken by the Government.

This action was decided at a meeting of the chamber, last night, at Speedie's cafe.

The first letter was dispatched early in October, and it pointed out that by the Government using concrete in the erection of the Fraser River bridge, 300 different industries in the province would be materially benefited.

Names of both Victoria and Vancouver now appear on C.P.R. and C.N.R. advertisements throughout Canada as the Western terminals of those railway systems, the tourist trade committee reported to the meeting. This was made possible through negotiations between the committee and railway officials, it was said.

Congratulations were tendered Trustee Percy E. George and Alderman-elect Archie Willis, members of the chamber, on their success at the civic election here on Thursday.

DIGGING UP THE NEWS

Tells the Extraordinary Story of John Lee, "The Man They Couldn't Hang," and How I Was the Innocent Cause of Him Spending Several Years Extra in Prison.

By HERBERT RAMSAY

It has been suggested to me on several occasions that I write my reporting reminiscences, and up until now I have resisted temptation for several reasons. The chief reason is a rooted aversion to the letter "L," and in an undertaking of autobiographical character the liberal use of the personal pronoun cannot be avoided. Secondly, I never kept a diary, so I have nothing to go on except a memory, which, although good, is not infallible, and is apt to lead me astray in regard to dates and names, except so far as they can be verified in a book of reference. There is an old colleague by my side with whom to swap recollections and jog my memory with a "Do you remember when?" I felt also that the business of writing reminiscences is the prerogative of old codgers who have earned the right to loaf around in slippers and cast their minds back half a century or thereabouts, and not for one who is still young enough to have lately been a golf addict. Still, in these quieter backwaters, far from the madding strife of old London, I have sometimes turned back the pages of memory and been surprised at the number and variety of my experiences. And yet there is not much cause for surprise, having regard to the fact that the business of a reporter is to attend the things that are unusual and important, and that there is no place on earth where there are so many unusual and important happenings as in London, where I spent seven years before the World War and about two years after. A news gatherer who spends only one year in London will have more experiences and adventures than any ordinary citizen anywhere, hence, after much cogitation, I feel that perhaps, after all, I have a few things to unfold that will be of interest.

HERBERT RAMSAY

RECORDING FACTS

To me it appears strange that after devoting my life to writing about other people I should now be writing about myself. And yet I have very little, next to nothing, to say about myself. I am merely the instrument recording facts about people, places and events. When the events of which I shall write took place I never struck me that I would ever mention them again. They were all in the day's work, and once the "copy" had left my hands, they were, in a manner of speaking, contemporary history that had been written. Tomorrow another page would have to be written. In retrospect they seem bigger than they did then. Perhaps that is because I can hardly believe it—they all happened before the World War, and it is just over twenty years since that event began. These recollections cover a period within the memory of most people who may read them. If you don't like them, you can "tune me out" and turn to the sport page or the women's page. I will not be conscious of it any more than the crooner you have snuffed out.

But if you become interested, we will attend the funeral of one kind and the coronation of another, we will garner news in Buckingham Palace, 10 Downing Street, and Scotland Yard, we will attend some of the most notorious murders and other trials of modern times at the Old Bailey, to crime investigations in Mayfair and Whitechapel, attend the "Battle of Sidney Street," share the royal box at a vaudeville show with an African king and get mixed up in all the biggest suffragist riots and criminal acts, attend the funerals of Florence Nightingale and General William Booth, meet Lord Strathcona, Earl Rosebery, Bonar Law, Keir Hardie and other celebrities, go for a gummy ride with Gaby Deslys (that name may convey nothing to some of you, but a great little girl was Gaby) and don't run away, ladies! talk with a famous actor who had nothing on but a shirt and to another who was having a bath.

So, without further cackle, let's go!

GETTING A SCOOP

It is the ambition of every reporter, young and old, to get a "scoop." A "scoop" is an important piece of news that a rival reporter does not have. In York I obtained a double-barreled "scoop" of the kind reporters dream of but rarely get. Mere "cub" that I was at the time, it was one of the greatest I ever achieved. It had, however, an unexpected result, which I did not foresee, and for which I was not directly responsible.

There came to the local opera house one week a vaudeville artist who was professionally known as "Dadas." His real name was Alfred Biddle, and by occupation he had been a stoker at the Crystal Palace. But he was discovered to have a phenomenal memory for dates. No date in history, sport, crime, or any event of importance, whether a fire, accident, or the opening of a new bridge, escaped his memory once he read it or heard of it. He went on the music halls as "Dadas," and none of the hundreds of thousands of people, a vast number of whom fired questions at him from the auditoriums of theatres, the British Isles, the Empire and the United States ever heard him stumped or ever stumped him about a date. It was an astounding gift—or it might be more accurate to say "is," because he is still living, although I believe not so active on the halls as he used to be.

"Dadas" sent word to the office that he wanted to see a reporter, and I was sent to his lodgings near the Opera House. His first revelation was a startling one. He showed me a written agreement with a group of professors at, I think, Princeton University, to whom he had sold his head, which was to be severed after death and dispatched to the university so that his freak brain might be examined. I cannot now recall whether the sum was ten thousand dollars or ten thousand pounds. At any rate, there was a clause in the agreement that if the professors should all have died before "Dadas" the contract would be null and void. But, of course, he had got the money. As a matter of fact, the professors are all dead, and I read not long ago where he had entered into a similar contract with another group of scientists.

That was a good story, but it paled before the second one.

JOHN LEE'S RELEASE

Pulling a letter out of his pocket, "Dadas" said, "I have got an order for the release of John Lee. Here is the Home Secretary's authority for me to go and meet him at the prison gate." Sure enough, the letter authorized "Dadas" to receive Lee at the gates of, I think, Dartmoor prison on the morning of a day in the following week.

I had heard people speak of John Lee, "The Man They Couldn't Hang." It will be necessary to tell something about him.

The experience of John Lee was probably the most harrowing, most astounding in history. He was employed at the home of a rich spinster at Babbacombe, near Torquay, in Devonshire. One day she was found dead at the foot of a staircase with a wound in her head. The immediate surmise was that she had fallen down stairs and been killed. But expert examination revealed that the wound could not have been caused by a fall. It was also found that some of her jewelry was missing. To cut a long story short, some of the jury was found in Lee's possession, and he was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death.

The execution was to take place in the jail at Exeter. Lee was placed on the scaffold, the rope around his neck and the hood drawn over his face. When the executioner pulled the lever the trap failed to open. There was a painful pause as the death party expected it to spring, but nothing happened. Lee was removed, the hood taken from his head, and he was marched back to his cell pending another attempt in a few minutes. The hangman tested the trap with a sack containing sand corresponding to Lee's weight, and the trap worked perfectly. So back Lee was marched to the scaffold, hooded and hooded again, and to the amazement of the onlookers, when the lever was pulled again the trap remained fast. After a few moments of paralyzing suspense Lee was taken off and returned to his cell to await a third effort. This time a carpenter was sent for and he shaved the edges of the trap so that it would open easily. A test was made—and the trap worked perfectly. For the third time Lee was placed upon the scaffold, roped and hooded, and the lever was pulled. Astonishing to relate, it refused to budge. To add to the horror of the scene, men stamped on the flaps to break them open so that the condemned man would fall through somehow, but nothing would move them. Lee was swaying on the scaffold as if about to faint, when the sheriff called a halt and Lee was literally carried to his cell. The sheriff refused to permit another attempt. The event was a world sensation at the time, and public opinion was against submitting John Lee to another ordeal. Rightly, the Home Secretary of the day refused also, and the sentence was commuted to penal servitude for life.

Of course, Lee, and many others with him, claimed that it was an intervention of Providence to prevent an innocent man being hanged.

FIRST-CLASS "BEAT"

Here was a first-class "scoop." In all innocence, I asked "Dadas" what he proposed to do with Lee. "I will take him on the halls with me," he replied. My interview, of course, was telegraphed all over the country. That evening several reporters were sent up from London papers to get their own story from the lips of "Dadas."

Parliament was then sitting, and a day or so later, the Home Secretary was questioned. "Had the right honorable gentlemen seen in the press that John Lee was to be executed on the music halls," was the tenor of the questions.

The Home Secretary said he had, and he had already cancelled the order for the release of Lee.

Four years elapsed and I was working in London. The news editor sidled up to me and said: "Did you ever hear of John Lee?" The question startled me. I smiled and merely said I knew a good deal about him. "Well," he said, "he has been released, and I hear he is working at the hotel. Go and get an interview with him."

FEELING OF GUILT

With much misgiving and a feeling of guilt because I had spent four more years in prison, I entered the hotel. There was a man sweeping the lobby. "Can you tell me where I can find Mr. Lee?" I asked. While a word the man flung down his broom and walked through a door, not even looking up. It was Lee himself.

Lee afterwards married and went to live in the north of England, but the marriage was unhappy and his wife obtained a separation. To the best of my knowledge, he is still living unless he has assumed another name and died.

There was a curious angle to the "Dadas" interview. At the close, "Dadas" said he would walk up

BRAN and OATMEAL COOKIES

Makes 4½ to 5 dozen Cookies

1 cup Quaker Bran	½ teaspoon Baking Soda
½ cup Raisins	3 tablespoons Hot Milk
½ cup Shelled Walnuts	1 Egg
1 Egg	½ cup Pastry Flour
½ cup Granulated Sugar	1 teaspoon Cinnamon
½ cup Malted Milk	½ teaspoon Nutmeg
1 cup Butter	1 cup Quaker Natural Bran

Put the Quaker Bran, raisins and nuts through the food chopper. Beat the egg, add sugar, salt and melted butter and combine thoroughly. Sift together the flour, soda and nutmeg, and add with the bran to the batter. Lastly add the chopped ingredients, mix well and drop by small spoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet, leveling them 2 to 3 inches apart. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 15 minutes.

INSECT LIFE IS DESCRIBED

Professor G. J. Spencer Gives Interesting Talk at Provincial Museum

An intensely interesting lecture on entomology was given, in the Provincial Museum, last night, before a large audience, by Prof. G. J. Spencer, of the department of zoology, University of British Columbia. The lecture was under the auspices of the Canadian Carnegie Museums Committee, sponsored by the Carnegie Corporation, of New York.

Apart from presenting his subject with refreshing clarity and simplicity, Professor Spencer gave to it a touch of humor that at times was both provocative of mirth and a stimulant to the attention given the lecturer.

Professor Spencer opened his remarks by explaining briefly the abundance of material that had been assembled at the Provincial Museum, which at the present time was unobtainable. He then showed a chart of the animal kingdom, which illustrated simply how large a part insects played in the continual warfare between animals. There were some 840,000 definitely identified species of animals, of which 625,000 were insects.

The oldest aspect of insect study was their sense of duty, and another, that the law had an eye for beauty when it created insects.

UNUSUAL POWERS

The professor then gave a general outline of the fundamental points about an insect. One of the interesting parts discussed was the insects' feelers, which, he said, had a remarkable ability for sending things by smell, sound, and a strange indefinable transmission of messages that could best be described as radio waves. These feelers, he said, could even measure the change in air vibrations. He told several interesting stories which illustrated the remarkable powers of these feelers.

The wing construction of insects was dealt with, and the speaker showed how there was a fundamental similarity between the wings of all insects, in so far as the veins were concerned.

Illustrating the wonder of creation, Professor Spencer said he had observed the eggs of a moth hatch by studying the subject through a microscope. Three progenies were born, and each had a heart.

"When you realize that these tiny insects are perfect in every respect, yet are so small they have to be observed under a microscope, you can see just how interesting a subject of study is offered you in the entomological field," he said.

SWARM IN CYCLES

He spoke of grasshoppers, and their manner of swarming in cycles of every seven years; of how they refused to eat if the temperature was below sixty-five degrees; how a bed bug could be kept alive for eight months in a glass jar without food or water; how ants summon aid in the most mysterious manner, either by emitting some scent, or sending out "radio" messages from their feelers; and also hundreds of other interesting facts about insect life.

He concluded his address by pointing out that there was a much greater variety of insect life in the West than in the East, and that British Columbia particularly was an unusually fruitful field in which to work. The study of insect life, identification of many of the insects, and recording their life-history could be greatly assisted, he said, by the general public taking a keener interest in the subject, and thus contribute valuable information to museums.

Mayor Visits Gyro Fund Headquarters At 10 A.M. Today

MAYOR David Leeming will, this morning at 10 o'clock, pay an official visit to the Gyro Club Christmas hamper fund campaign headquarters, at Yates and Vancouver Streets. His Worship will examine the packing and shipping department and meet the office staff at work on their fine mission.

He put on his overcoat and I noticed him looking everywhere for something and fumbling in his pockets. "Lost something?" I asked. "Yes," he said, "I can't remember where I put down my gloves." Marvellous as his memory was for dates, it was subject to the same frailty as normal people's, so far as ordinary matters were concerned.

He found his gloves on top of a piano!

BALLOT RECOUNT SEES NO CHANGE

Minor Revisions in Votes Made but No Alterations Recorded in Candidates' Positions

No drastic changes in the election results occurred when the ballots were recounted yesterday at the City Hall. The only alterations were in the number of votes secured by some of the candidates.

Eleven complete ballot forms were rejected for improper marking, eleven others because of the use of marks identifying the voter. One was a complete blank and five others were thrown out for improper combinations.

In addition to those, eighty-one were returned without a vote for either mayoralty candidate, two carried vote markings outside the proper square and one was signed for both candidates.

In the school ballot, 167 were blank, one was improperly marked and four selected too many candidates.

In the aldermanic lists, twenty-one blanks were turned in, and nine ballots carried votes for too many candidates.

LAID AT REST

Rev. Canon Stocken conducted impressive funeral services for the late Mrs. Clara Cross, Friday afternoon. There was a large gathering of friends present to pay their last respects to one who was held in very high esteem. E. J. Waighman, W. J. Richards, E. C. Clarkson, D. W. First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 oz. of really better medicine than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, and tastes fine. And for quick, lasting relief, it has no equal. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

UNHEALTHY TAXATION

Some years ago the Retail Trade Bureau conducted a campaign for the abolition of the income tax and put up many solid arguments in this respect. Nothing was done about the matter.
Now the successor of that organization, the Commercial Bureau of Canada, is continuing the campaign. It sets forth arguments to show how the equivalent of what the income tax brings in could be saved. The savings indicated are: unification of railways and drastic curtailment in the cost of administration. Both are obvious necessities in the interest of economy. There is no campaign of any sort being carried on that should command public respect more than one which, if successful, would mean substantial savings to the taxpayers.

The Commercial Bureau argues that the people are bearing too great a burden of taxation and that it is absolutely necessary to "stop the leaks in our railway situation and the extravagance of over-government." The argument proceeds to point out that the income tax is the "most destructive" of any levy. It absorbs capital that would otherwise go to the development of industry and business; it retards the inflow of foreign capital for investment. It is inequitable and confiscatory, the more particularly because of the duplication of its incidence. The argument goes to say that the income tax "destroys initiative, encourages deception, creates unemployment and leaves a trail of discontent and fear on the part of the investor, and also on the part of the consumer."

This is not the language of exaggeration.
What is advanced can be proved in experiences to be found from one end of the country to the other. The arguments educed by the Commercial Bureau are not susceptible to diminution in strength by any rebuttal. It is common knowledge that the economies that could be put into operation through unified control of the railway systems would mean that in five years' time the Canadian National Railways could meet the whole of their interest charges. This is something which should make its claim on the attention of the taxpayers as a whole. There is the same soundness of argument in advocacy of the desirability of cutting down the cost of government. The Maritime Provinces should be under one administration. The Prairie Provinces should also be combined for legislative purposes. Canada has a surplus of governmental machinery, and it is sapping the resources of the people. The Commercial Bureau is drawing forcible attention to two problems before the country which call earnestly for solution.

THE SPLIT INFINITIVE

A learned assembly of divines, a few centuries ago, expressed the opinion that some transgressions of the moral law are more heinous than others. Those who deal with offenders in our courts of justice recognize this principle when they try to make the punishment fit the crime.
The pundits and mandarins of grammar agree in principle with the theologians and jurists.
They treat certain grammatical lapses with mild disapproval and reserve a fuller measure of just censure and condemnation for offenders who grossly violate those grammatical conventions which our Gracious Sovereign is pleased to approve as the King's English.

What constitutes a "gross" violation and differentiates it from a mere peccadillo? This is no idle question, and if the grammarians can produce a satisfactory answer it is surely their duty to do so. Why, for example, do we catch our breath and then try to look unconcerned when someone says: "It is pleasant for we young people," or
"This is between you and I," or "I have a letter from my cousin, he who lives in Australia"; and why do we insist on "It is I," and "Whom do you mean?" in print, while we cheerfully allow "It is me," and "Who do you mean?" in the easy and familiar oral discourse of quite well-educated people? How, again, has it come about that there are so many stout defenders of the unity and integrity of the infinitive on the one hand, and so many iconoclasts on the other who split their infinitives whenever they feel like it, and denounce the non-splitters as mere purists, reactionaries, and superstitious upholders of a useless tradition?

Between the reckless radicals and the die-hards there are many who neither know nor care a straw about the matter and say "to really understand," "to slowly recover," "to deliberately refuse," and the like, in serene unconsciousness of any impropriety. There are also those who are nervous about infinitives and unhappy because they are not sure of themselves. They are determined not to commit the horrid deed, and in order to avoid the very appearance of evil will not permit themselves to say "to be really understood," because they suspect the expression as perhaps a split infinitive, which it is not, although "to really understand" certainly is. In support of his assertion that "we have the right to split the infinitive," the writer of an essay on the King's English in a prominent Canadian newspaper the other day quoted the following on the authority of Cranmer: "We may always remember," "We may evermore give thanks," "Ye that do truly and earnestly repent." All that we have here, however, is an adverb inserted between the auxiliary and the rest of a compound verb. The infinitive has not been split.

These compound verbs, "may remember,"
"may give," "do repent," are composed of an auxiliary and an infinitive from which the "to" has been dropped. The insertion of an adverb between the auxiliary and the infinitive does not split the latter. What has been split is a compound verb. In the expression "to calmly consider," the error consists not in the violence done to the infinitive but in the violence done to the adverb by misplacing it, but in the violence done to a legitimate non-finite verb form by driving a wedge into its vitals, by disrupting the natural unity of its members.

Is the split infinitive a gross, or a trifling, departure from sound usage? What is called sound grammatical usage has become established and accepted because it suits the habits of the people.

It lends itself to clear and easy understanding and is in accord with their instinctive tastes as well as with their native manner of thought. It is an instinctive tendency to dislike what is ugly as well as what is obscure in meaning. It may not always be possible to get rid of a split infinitive, though undeniably ugly, is better than ambiguity.

UNREST IN EUROPE

Whatever the merits of the new German regime, there is no denying the fact that Nazism has intensified the dread of some dire happening in Central Europe. This is the situation visualized by Sir Philip Gibbs, who recently completed a European journey. Sir Philip sensed ominous tension everywhere in his wanderings, in Geneva, the home of the League of Nations, as well as elsewhere. It is difficult, he says, for the people of Great Britain to understand this tension, because of their insular aloofness and calm. It is that aloofness that is the envy of the nations of Europe, as well as the fact that Great Britain never seems to take war or the threat of war seriously.

The peoples of Europe are not satisfied with post-war statesmanship. All of them say that "they do not like the look of things in Germany."
There is a haunting fear of Nazism, and in view of the challenge which is regarded as inevitable the peoples even now are lining up for an ultimate trial of strength in the field. Sir Philip Gibbs believes that 35 per cent of the people of Germany are ready to die for Herr Hitler. The rest of the population is waiting to see what will happen, hoping for the best but fearing the worst.
No one seems to know what Germany's intentions are, but there is a realization that the Nazi Philosophy is something in the nature of a reversion to Paganism.

Meantime, however, Nazism protests its peaceful intentions. In Germany there is a tendency to blame France always for disbelief and irony.
All outside observers who bring temperate views to bear on the situation seem to agree that there is a certain madness abroad in Germany; no one can foretell if it will increase or diminish as Nazism grows. The lesson of all that can be learned is that while it is well to hope for the best, it is better to prepare for the worst. Sir Philip Gibbs presents a disturbing problem and shows the grave issues at stake. It is in face of the facts of the situation that other nations should be prepared to act.

WHEN APPLE TREES BLOOM

I know that soft zephyrs now play
In an orchard where apple trees bloom
And deep through the panes of the window
Of a neat little, sweet little room,
A room with a bed in one corner,
Half hidden by curtains of euharmony—
'Twas there that I slept the sweet slumber
Of innocence when I was young.

Soft winds of remembrance are blowing
Their fond recollections to me
Of that little cottage and orchard
In Ireland far over the sea.
I guess a bed's still in that corner,
I know that the apple trees bloom;
But the old place has passed into new hands;
I'll never more sleep in that room.

Yet often when soft winds are playing Sweet music in orchards abroad,
In dreams I'll tip-toe to the window
Of a neat little, sweet little room,
And I'll vision a bed and a table
In a corner with curtains of euharmony.
'Tis thus, though a man disillusioned,
I'll dream the dear dreams of the young.
—Michael Mullin, in Irish Weekly Independent.

SHIELD AGAINST DARKNESS

Not with vain protestation shall we set
The seal of time upon our happiness.
Nor hold the love we've known as limitless.
By temporal pact the mind contrives a net
To hold the heart and would by this deny
The mutability of day and night.

Not this. But rather let us hold the bright Remembrance of a moment that must die.
The wind of discontent cannot prevail
Against a love that makes no covenant
With doubt or fear. The quickened breath may fail
And death lay waste the flesh, but we shall wait
No more than this as shield against the dark;
Who once touch beauty ever bear the mark.
—Edmond J. Fitzgerald, in The New York Sun.

Heaven to mankind impartial we confess,
If all are equal in their happiness.
—Pope.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Get money, still get money, boy.
No matter by what means.
—Johnson.

We believe it was Lord Beaconsfield, a consummate politician as well as an astute statesman, who said commissions were formed for the purpose of shelving troublesome political questions. Under modern parliamentary institutions the forming of commissions has become a habit. Commissions are sitting, and are supposed to be sifting, all over Canada, in Great Britain and in the United States. Of the making of them, like the making of books, there is no end. Some good things may have come out of the making of books, but little good has come of the making of commissions.

Possibly we should make an exception of the case of the commission which has been investigating and sifting price spreads and other things in connection with the conduct of Canadian business. The investigations by this commission have revealed some obnoxious features regarding wage spreads as well as price spreads, and some of the interests concerned have partially remedied the former abuse. But the probabilities are that when that commission has finished sifting, and has made its report, as soon as business has recovered its economic equilibrium, the evidence and the findings will be forgotten, and everything will go along in the same old way.

Well, we see by press reports from Ottawa that Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King has suggested that another commission be appointed to investigate and to sift. The leader of the opposition wants a commission formed for the purpose of finding out something about the manufacture and sale, and the profits derived from the manufacture and sale of arms and ammunition. Canada has not many armament factories. Canada may do some business in the production of materials which enter into the trade of making explosives, but the products of these Canadian industries are chiefly applied to industrial purposes within the country, such as mining of all kinds, an industry which has done a great deal to stimulate the prosperity of the country as compared with other countries during the passing depression.

The object of Mr. King in demanding the appointment of such a commission is not apparent.
Probably the hon. leader has no object at all; that like the rest of us, he is simply a creature of habit, and habits are hard to overcome.
Mr. King seems to believe that commissions are sovereign remedies for national ills and business de-pressions. Some years ago he asked for the appointment of a commission as a cure for unemployment, and before the end of the coming session of Parliament he will be lamenting that such a commission was not appointed. Or it may be that Mr. King wants to have a commission on armaments and munitions because Great Britain and the United States have set up such commissions. We do not know what the British armament and munition commission has accomplished, but we do know that a member of the British Parliament has for years been at the head of an international disarmament commission, and that organization, after all its delving and sifting, has done nothing at all.

As to the United States armament and munition commission, composed of members of the Senate, its chief end seems to have been to prove that the arms manufacturers and munition makers of all other nations have been the vilest sinners and war profiteers, and that no stigma attaches to the manufacturers of arms and explosives in the United States. President Roosevelt, noting the trend of the Congressional commission, has brought it up with a round turn in the apparent belief that the investigators were making what is called exhibitions of themselves.
The President knows and was sufficiently candid to admit, that of all the profiteers in the Great War
the United States was the chief.
Did the Congressmen delude themselves into the belief that all the world did not know it? At the beginning of the war the people of the United States in the mass were not concerned about the righteousness of one cause or the iniquity of the other. There was an opportunity of making extortionate profits, and they took advantage of it. That is the nature of humanity and the opportunity of business.

The President, therefore, has directed attention to a fact which did not need to be presented. That is that the armament and the munition makers were not the only profiteers. The whole nation was composed of profiteers, from the merchant who had goods to sell, the manufacturer who had machines to market, to the workman whose only stock was his labor. So the conclusion of the whole matter, practically declares Mr. Roosevelt, is that while war prices prevailed
the people of the United States, during the period of neutrality, when all the world was buying and they were doing all the selling, exacted their pound of flesh and did not abate their exactions after their own country became a belligerent. The President practically declares that if the armament and munition concerns are to be indicted for war profiteering, every interest and person in the country should be arraigned for profiteering, for all were equally guilty.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of December 15, 1884)

Improvements Made—The Mechanics' Institute seems to have caught the inspiration from what is going on around us, as evidenced by recent changes made. The reading room has been rescued from its former dreary and cheerless appearance by the introduction of a screen at the lower end of the room, by blinds put on the windows and by the displacement of the old stove that gave the room to afford accommodation approaching home comfort.

Fire Alarm—The single tap on the Tiger bell last evening was caused by the burning of a foot in the chimney of a house on Bastion Street. Chief Engineer Phillips proceeded to the house and directed the inmates to quit the fire, which having been done, the flames subsided, and the engines did not roll.

Down Again—The lines connecting The Colonist with Mainland points were downed last night and news was much hampered. However, it is mentioned because it is such a rare occurrence these days.

C.P.R. Notes—Major Rogers is on the ground and has commenced the survey of the railway line from Port Moody to Coal Harbour.

11:00 a.m.—Music in the Air.
11:30 a.m.—The Concert Album.
12:00 noon—Melody Moderne.

Cowichan Historical Society Hears Interesting Address on Early History of Undertaking

DUNCAN, Dec. 14.—The Cowichan Historical Society met last evening at the home of R. Hodson, Arlington Road, K. F. Duncan occupying the chair. A very interesting talk was given by H. W. McKenzie on the early days of the E. & N. Railway. Mr. McKenzie was asked to compile his valuable material into a paper for the society's records.

A letter was read from Mrs. Cree, honorary secretary of the British Columbia Historical Association, congratulating the local society on the work it is doing in marking historic sites in Cowichan. Discussion took place on the means of financing this work, and a subscription list will be opened. O. C. Brown will present figures at the next meeting on the exact cost of needed material and labor.

Dr. Lamb, provincial archivist, will be asked to be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the society, and, in the event of his accepting, the meeting will be open to the public to give everyone an opportunity of hearing him.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

AN UNUSUAL ENTRY-KILLING PLAY

Judging from the bridge situation in the New York clubs, the depression must be over, for a large proportion of part-score hands are being optimistically bid to game and not a few hands which should be played at game are being bid to slam contracts. Perhaps, with the rapid growth of the science of play, prospective declarers are becoming over-confident and forgetting that the defending players are learning a few tricks, too. On today's hand, though the declarer hit upon the best play to make his over-optimistic slam contract, the West player saw exactly what he was about, and, in defiance of convention, made the only play which would defeat the bid.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♥	Pass	4♠	Pass
4♠	Pass	5♠	Pass
6♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The fault in reaching this slam, of course, was almost entirely that of the South player. Over two clubs South should not have forced with three hearts, but should have bid four spades, at which point the bidding would probably have died. South's optimistic bidding, particularly in view of the void in his partner's suit, is hard to account for.

At any rate, South found him-

SUMMER COURSES

During the business session, President Brydon gave a short address in which he referred to the work being done by the Victoria centre which, he said, was one of the most active in the Dominion. He also referred to the value of the Summer courses in astronomy and gave assurance they would be continued in the future. The centre now has a total of 119 members, an increase of seven over the previous year.

The members were entertained with a short musical program, the following contributing: Gordon Shaw, 'cello solo; Miss Phyllis Deaville, solo, and H. P. Hughes, solo.

NANAIMO RIDING

On December 30, the C.C.F. will elect a candidate in the Nanaimo Federal riding, at a convention called at Duncan. The date of the Victoria convention of the party has not yet been definitely set, it was said yesterday.

Between now and the end of next month, several nominating conventions of the party will be held throughout the province.

Anglican bishops and clergy in England will, in the early future, be called up to retire at a fixed age. It is estimated that there are over 1,400 clergy of the age between seventy and eighty years at work.

An instance of continued efficiency in that period is the Bishop of London, who is still as sprightly as many a much younger man.

Miniature Pantomime in Window

The window of David Spencer, Ltd., facing on Douglas and View Streets is drawing crowds about it every day, adults and children alike pausing to wonder at the clever display. The fairy story of "Cinderella" in five acts, is portrayed by animated mechanical figures, elaborately dressed, accompanied by a toy orchestra of animals conducted by Santa Claus. Between acts, a curtain falls and rises on a fresh episode. Everything is carried out in minutest detail, and the display is a revelation in ingenuity.

COUNCIL DEBATES RELIEF BY-LAW

LADYSMITH, Dec. 14.—The chief business of the council on Wednesday evening was the consideration of the relief loan by-law. The amount of money to be borrowed by the city from the Government is repayable to the Government over a period of ten years. The city has to provide 40 per cent of the cost of relief for all those residents who require it who have been resident in the city for the past three years. This will mean approximately four mills on the dollar, so that the rates for 1935 will be very little different from the rates of the current year.

CHOKED ON FILLING

MELBOURNE, Australia.—In the words of the coroner, A. J. Lillie, twenty-two-year-old bank clerk, "altered his indignation to outweigh his discretion" when he tried to force himself into a house to see a young woman acquaintance. In a struggle with two male members of the household a tooth filling was knocked out and Lillie was choked to death. The jury's verdict was "justifiable homicide."

SHRINERS GIVE HOLIDAY CHEER

Concert and Dance Largely Attended—Admittance by Goods for Distribution

Carrying out an annual custom, that of distributing Christmas cheer to needy persons in Victoria, members of Gluch Temple Shrine presented an evening of entertainment at the Shrine Temple, last night, which commenced with a concert and concluded with a dance, at which the Shrine Band supplied the music.

Admittance to the concert and dance was by donations of non-perishable goods, scrip, toys, and other things that go to make Christmas enjoyable by young and old.

THE PROGRAMME

In the concert portion of the programme, the following artists assisted: Cornet trio, G. Green, J. Miller and J. Mossop; folk dance, pupils of Quadra School; violin selection, Stewart Scribner; comic musical skit, Ronald Smith and C. Wilson, and solo, Frank Partridge. The programme was in charge of G. Green and a committee.

The concert and dance were largely attended, and the donations were exceedingly generous, it was reported by members of the committee. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the dance at midnight.

While stores and streets are gaily decorated for the festive season, and thousands of persons are busy shopping for gifts, the Salvation Army is conducting a drive to raise funds with which to take care of the needy. Amid the festivity, the public is asked to pause for a moment and give thought to those who will have no Christmas this year unless provision is made for them.

"Keep the pot boiling" has been a frequent slogan seen on the streets of Victoria for many Christmases. The slogan again is being used this season, and citizens are asked to contribute as generously as they can so that those less fortunate may have Christmas cheer brought to them.

NEAR CLOSE OF TEST ACTIONLegal Argument Set for Monday in Demand on Assurance Fund

In the civic action in which J. R. Brown is seeking to establish the right to participate in the assurance fund of the Land Registry to compensate him for loss in connection with a mortgage attached to his premises by J. William Maynard, all evidence was completed yesterday. On Monday, lawyers will argue their respective cases before Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson in the Supreme Court.

Evidence which was a repetition of that given at the trial of Maynard last September was continued yesterday. Just before noon a question arose as to how far Cleve G. White was entitled to go in giving evidence. Mr. White had represented the Crown at the former trial and demurred at giving evidence along the lines suggested by H. W. Davey, appearing for Mr. Brown in the present case. He said that he had been instructed to act for the prosecution by the Attorney-General. How much further he was expected to go in connection with the proceedings he was in doubt until instructed.

SETTLES POINT

Argument followed, and over the noon recess His Lordship considered the authorities submitted.

On resuming, His Lordship expressed the opinion that the evidence of what happened in connection with the trial was admissible and on this line the case proceeded. H. G. Hinton, trustee in bankruptcy in connection with the estate of J. W. Maynard, testified that Mr. Brown had filed a claim against the estate which had been accepted by him. He replied to a question of why nothing had been paid in satisfaction of the claim that there were no funds available. He added that, in his opinion, there was no chance of there being anything for the ordinary creditors in the estate.

H. W. Davey and Harold Beckwith appear for J. R. Brown, the plaintiff; Arthur J. Patton, for J. W. Maynard; F. L. Shaw, for the trustee in bankruptcy; and C. H. O'Halloran, for the Attorney-General and the Minister of Finance.

This non-member firm passed the shares along to a member house which put them through the exchange in the usual way to record the sale. When delivery of the stock was made, an exchange official noticed the obvious forgery.

A thirty-foot Christmas tree, illuminated with 100 brilliant lights of various colors, has been installed by the city in the central boulevard on Pandora Avenue, near the intersection of Quadra Street.

This contribution to the city's festive decoration scheme was made possible through the efforts of the parks committee, of which Alderman John Worthington is chairman, and the electric light committee, of which Alderman T. W. Hawkins is chairman.

Work of installing the lights was done under the supervision of Walter McKicking, city wiring inspector. Since a smaller Christmas tree, installed at a service station, also was lighted last night, this part of the city had a gay appearance, and attracted the attention of many persons.

CHURCH WORKER LAID AT REST

Eloquent Tribute Paid by Rev. Father Wood at Funeral of Mrs. R. A. Duncan

Impressive tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Robert A. Duncan, 326 Ker Avenue, was paid at funeral services here, yesterday. Our Lady Queen of Peace Church at Esquimalt was too small to accommodate the many mourners. The hearse was covered with many beautiful floral tributes, testifying to the widespread sorrow at her passing. Rev. Father Wood celebrated Requiem High Mass, assisted by Rev. Father E. M. Scheelen, deacon, and Rev. Father C. T. Albury, sub-deacon. Bishop MacDonald was in the sanctuary.

The Catholic Women's League, of which Mrs. Duncan had been a past president, formed a guard of honor as the casket was borne in and out of the church. Father Wood paid eloquent tribute to Mrs. Duncan's great Catholicity, her devotion to her home and family, and her kindly interest in young people, to whom her home was always open. In the twenty-five years since the deceased had come from England, she had devoted her life to the welfare of others, he said.

Interment was in Ross Bay Cemetery. The pallbearers were: Richard, Edward, Bernard, Gerard and Leonard Duncan, sons of the deceased, and A. Snelling, son-in-law.

Lord Ponsonby, Labor peer, in supporting the charge that the clause was an attack on Sir Henry for his political convictions, hotly told the chamber that, if anyone thought a man did not suffer social and professional ostracism in England today because he held Labor convictions, then they were mistaken. He demanded withdrawal of the entire bill, but when the Government adopted Lord Reading's suggestion, he concurred.

NO IMPROPER INTENTIONS

Lord Hailsham, the Government leader, regretted the debate had taken place at all, because it would not redound to the dignity of the bench. "I hope I have satisfied the House," he concluded, "that there are no silly nor improper intentions behind the bill, which is a very innocent and mild piece of reform."

The highlight of the entire debate came when Lord Sankey, the Lord Chancellor, chiefly responsible for the bill, defended himself in one of the most moving speeches the Upper Chamber has ever heard.

Standing beside the Woolsock in full-bottomed gown and black robe, Lord Sankey spoke with deep feeling, at times almost passionately, and used many gestures—unusual for the Lord Chancellor. He asserted that the bill was framed solely for better administration of justice and absolutely denied Lord Hewart's complaint that he, as permanent head of the judiciary, had not been consulted about the bill.

WARM RECONCILIATION

After Lord Sankey had announced the clause so as not to affect any present Lord Justice, the House agreed to second reading and adjourned until Monday, and a warm scene of reconciliation followed.

Immediately the House adjourned, the Lord Chancellor rose from the Woolsock and crossed the floor to shake hands cordially with Lord Hewart. The latter shook hands with Lord Reading and the three had a few moments of conversation, while the Sergeant-at-Arms, carrying the mace, hovered in the background, the usual formal procession being thrown out of gear by the demonstration.

There was a full attendance in the chamber and the public galleries were packed, the audience including many legal luminaries.

OUTLINES PLAN FOR NEXT YEAR

There was a crying need for even-entertainment for tourists in Victoria, the gathering was told, and Mr. Eslick explained that in his eighty-four-page report on tourist development for Victoria, that is being acted upon at the present time by the association, he had set forth the suggestions that a great Winter Garden be erected such as could be used for presenting operas, great dances and other major functions. He further suggested that a currency, Department of Finance, and J. W. MacFarlane and H. W. Thompson, of the same department, arrived in Victoria yesterday, to make their periodical checkup of accounts at Federal Government offices in the city. They are staying at the Empress Hotel.

Session in January—Opening of the second session of the Eighteenth Legislature of British Columbia may be delayed a little beyond expectations. The Government, it is said, will wait the return of Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir from the East on Tuesday, next, before deciding on the date of the formal opening. From present indications this may be towards the end of January, it was stated.Steady Improvement—George E. Gallop, Windsor, Ont., and J. W. Evans, Montreal, of Canadian Industries, Limited, salt and alkali division, arrived in Victoria, yesterday, with the message that all divisions of their industry were showing a steady improvement, and the business outlook for the entire country was good. During their visit in the city, they will stay at the Empress Hotel.Struck by Automobile—Mrs. S. A. Rattenbury, of Esquimalt Road, was slightly injured in a traffic accident at the intersection of Douglas and Hastings Streets at 6:25 o'clock last evening. She was crossing from the east to the west side of Douglas when she was knocked down by an automobile driven by Lester Drysdale, 1033 North Park Street. Mrs. Rattenbury was taken to the first aid station at police headquarters and later to her home.Postpones Trial—The civil action for damages, in the Supreme Court, by L. C. Harris, against James Parfitt, arising out of an automobile accident, is now set down for trial on Tuesday. Harold Tait, representing the plaintiff in the action, in asking for an adjournment owing to another case having right of way on Monday, expressed the opinion that there was good reason to expect that a settlement might be arranged out of court.Lectures Enlarged—Through arrangements being made by Francis Kermode, director of the Provincial Museum, the Carnegie lectures on Saturday mornings will be extended early in the new year to include children in district schools, as well as those from city institutions. A. H. Marrion, of this city, will lecture twice today at the museum on "Fossil Hunting," commencing at 9:45 a.m., and repeating the address at 11:15 a.m. The children's series will then be postponed until January 12.

convention hall be constructed; a boardwalk be built along the shore; that the shoreline be redecorated; the Gorge made into a more attractive scenic attraction, and the way to the summit of Mount Tolmie made more accessible.

SINGLE OUTLAY

The speaker explained that the $40,000 necessary for this work would not come as a contribution or charity, but would be an investment on the part of the local businessmen. Such moneys should only represent 1 per cent on the added revenue by the increased tourist business, he added. After the first year—the first big show—the attractions would pay for themselves at no additional outlay to the businessmen, Mr. Eslick said.

Interesting Addresses Given Horticultural Section on Rock Gardens and on Fungi

METCHOSIN, Dec. 14.—Two most interesting lectures were heard at Metchosin Hall on Monday night, under the auspices of the horticultural section of Metchosin and District Community Club. The first lecture was given by M. D. Rant, of Rockholme Gardens, on "Rock Gardens." Mr. Rant showed lantern slides of Kew Gardens, Edinburgh Gardens, and others in Great Britain, also beautiful gardens in Victoria and British Columbia. Mr. Rant made his points in a very interesting and simple manner.

The second lecture was given by C. L. Harrison, with slides, on "Edible and Non-Edible Fungi." He ended his lecture with some gorgeous views of the mountains of Vancouver Island.

A resolution was proposed, and carried unanimously, to represent to the Provincial Government that the trees along the highways and roads of British Columbia be preserved for posterity. A programme, with lectures and meetings for next six months, was distributed among the audience, and steps will be taken to supply all those interested with programmes in due time. The evening concluded with a vote of thanks to the speakers.

B.C. Seeks Readjustment Of Conditions of Union

Hon. Gordon Sloan, K.C., Addresses Liberal Women's Forum, Pointing Out Alleged Disparity in Terms Extended This Province

A very clear outline of the representations recently made by the British Columbia Provincial Government, through Premier T. D. Pattullo, the Attorney-General, Hon. Gordon Sloan, and the Minister of Finance, Hon. John Hart, to the Federal Government at Ottawa, in connection with an appeal for readjustment of terms of union, was given by Mr. Sloan at the December meeting of the Liberal Women's Forum, yesterday afternoon.

In concluding his excellent summary, the speaker reminded his listeners that the present Liberal Government had been the first to gain a sympathetic hearing from the Federal authorities, and whether immediate action resulted or not, he felt certain that the matter would not be allowed to rest in some measure of parity with the rest of Canada were secured by this province.

SYNOPSIS GIVEN
A synopsis of the historical events leading to the terms of union under Confederation occupied the first few minutes of the talk, leading up to the part played by Sir John A. Macdonald, who, according to R. E. Gosnell, realized, before many of his contemporaries, the urgency of formulating a plan for a Canadian trans-continental railway to forestall a plan by American capitalists to extend the Northern Pacific Railway through Manitoba and the Middle West and British Columbia into Alaska. Delegates sent from this province to Ottawa to ask simply for a wagon road across the continent to connect British Columbia with the East were surprised to discover this fully-matured proposal for a railway.

Governor Musgrave had framed the terms of union and laid them before the council, these proposing, among other things, that the population of British Columbia should, for the purpose of financial arrangements, be estimated at 120,000, although the actual population of the province at that time was only 10,585, composed of 7,038 whites and 1,538 Chinese. The Indian population was estimated at between 25,000 and 30,000. Approximately 56 per cent of this population was on Vancouver Island, chiefly at Victoria.

In Ottawa during the debate on the terms of union, considerable opposition to the terms of union arose. Edward Blake using the argument that the province was a sea of mountains, and that annexing it would be too high a price to secure confederation. Moreover the Dominion Government would not accept British Columbia's population of 120,000 as a basis of debt and per capita adjustment, and reduced the number to 50,000.

NOT FORCED ON B.C.
Mr. Sloan made it quite clear that the railway was not forced on the Dominion by British Columbia, but the British Columbia delegates agreed to the terms which, the speaker claimed, were not just or equitable to the province, although a railway across the continent on Canadian soil was an Imperial and Dominion necessity.

As the total subsidy based upon a population of 60,000 amounted to only $114,000, there was a discrepancy of over $200,000. Saskatchewan, with an actual population in 1901 of 91,279, was on entry into confederation in 1905, allowed an assumed population of 250,000 for subsidy purposes; Alberta, with an actual population in 1901 of 73,022, was allowed an assumed population of 250,000 for subsidy purposes. In other words, these provinces had been allowed assumed populations at least three times the number shown by the census, yet this proposal was refused to British Columbia.

Saskatchewan and Alberta were today drawing an interest on debt allowance of over $400,000; British Columbia received $28,000, and even if the original debt were not subtracted, she would receive only about $100,000 annually in interest. British Columbia, in fact, received an allowance per capita of about one-third of that given to the other provinces.

The percentage of British Columbia's total subsidy allowances as compared with other provinces was quoted as follows: To Prince Edward Island, 150.58; to Nova Scotia, 67.38; to New Brunswick, 68.59; to Quebec, 28.18; to Ontario, 23.38; to Manitoba, 48.31; to Saskatchewan, 56.00; to Alberta, 62.08, said Mr. Sloan in the closing part of his argument, emphasizing how this province was suffering disparity by comparison with the rest of the Dominion.

Mrs. J. S. Atkins, the president, thanked Mr. Sloan on behalf of the club.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

QUALICUM BEACH
The monthly meeting of the Qualicum District Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. G. Mant. There was a splendid Christmas stall and a doll's carriage and doll were won by Mrs. Fisher, of Hilliers. Mrs. Mant arranged a competition; a Christmas greeting jumbled up, the contestants to arrange words in correct form. Mrs. W. Thrall won the prize. The officers elected for 1935 were: Mrs. Marshall, of Hilliers, president; Mrs. Kennedy, of Hilliers, secretary; treasurer: Mrs. Harris, director for Dashwood; Mrs. Palmer, director for Coombs; Mrs. Mant, director for Qualicum Beach. A hearty vote of appreciation was given the retiring president, Mrs. G. Mant, who has held the position for four years.

Weddings

SALISBURY—FIELDHOUSE
A quiet wedding was solemnized last evening at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. A. de B. Owen, when he performed the marriage rites for Edith Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Fieldhouse, Kent Road, and Mr. Ernest Salisbury, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Salisbury, 540 Michigan Street.

The bride wore a smart brown silk suit and a brown hat and a corsage bouquet of carnations and roses, and she was attended by Mrs. J. H. Wheeler. The best man was Mr. Reginald Gerrard, cousin of the groom.

A small reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents, where the wedding cake had the place of honor of the supper table. Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury will make their home in Victoria.

Anglican Young People

ST. PAUL'S
In place of the regular meeting on Wednesday evening, an enjoyable and successful court, which drive was held in the Parish Hall by St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. Next Wednesday will be the last meeting for the year, and all members and young people interested are cordially invited to attend the novelty social to be held, when the usual Christmas hampers will be packed.

Clubs and Societies

Langford Girls' W.A.

A Christmas sale and a silver tea were held at the home of Mrs. Percy Welch, Wednesday afternoon, by members of the Girls' Branch of the W.A. The sale was opened by Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lytle, who spoke a few words on the work accomplished by the girls. Good business was done at the needlework and home cooking stall, also at the Christmas tree, which bore many useful small gifts. A box of candy was won by Mrs. Phillips. Those in charge of the affair were Misses Elizabeth Welch, Stella Hincks, Josephine Seabrook, Annette Seabrook, Adele Yates, Joan Stirling, Eileen Hincks and Adeline Smith. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. P. Welch for her kindness in lending her home for the occasion, and a small gift was presented to her by Miss Stella Hincks on behalf of the Girls' W.A.

Obypa Club

The Obypa Club met recently in the Oak Bay United Church parlors, Rev. G. B. Switzer taking as his subject, "The Greatest Thing in Life." The president, Eric Garman, conducted the business session and welcomed Mr. John Henry to the club. Interesting book reviews were given by Miss Jean Smith and Mr. David Stott, who chose "Harvest in the North," "Lamb in His Bosom," "One's Company" and "Lost Horizon." The secretary, Miss Sinclair, gave a short report of the club's activities. The next session will be held on Tuesday evening, when an interesting programme will be given, with Rev. G. A. Reynolds as the speaker on his experiences in Europe.

Christmas Sale

The ladies of St. Mary's Church, Ladysmith, held their annual Christmas sale in the Convent Hall. Despite the inclement weather, there was a good turnout of visitors during the afternoon and evening. Winners in the contests were: $20 gold piece, J. Dick, Brentons; $10 gold piece, H. Alton, Ladysmith; $5 gold pieces, Mrs. J. Lapansky and G. Kreker; wool comforter, R. P. Davidson, Ladysmith; gold watch, Mrs. B. C. Ladysmith; electric clock, D. Simmons; Nanaimo; $5 hampers, T. Brader and B. Hart; one ton of coal, Mrs. Sane, Cobble Hill; tea cloth, J. Davis, Ladysmith; door prize, W. Morgan, Ladysmith.

Typographical W.A.

The Women's Auxiliary No. 65 to the Typographical Union No. 201, held its monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon. A new member was welcomed. The usual routine was carried through with good reports in from the various sources, including Vice-President Mrs. J. Hough's report of the very successful bridge tea held at Mrs. A. E. Johnson's home, and a report of the meeting of the Local Council of Women. Plans were made for the distribution of Christmas cheer. A bridge luncheon at the Hudson's Bay will be held on Thursday, January 17, at 12:30 o'clock. Tickets can be obtained from members.

Colwood W.A.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to St. John's Church, Colwood, was held in the Colwood Hall, on Wednesday, Mrs. R. W. Palmer presided. The treasurer reported gratifying results from the sale of work held on December 5. Donations were made to the Christmas hamper fund; to the Sunday school Christmas tree and the hall fund. An increase in the pledge was made and the united thank offering amounted to $4.64. The junior superintendent, Mrs. Little, reported increased membership in the branch, bringing it up to fourteen. The tea hostesses were Miss James and Mrs. Brown.

Langford Guild

The monthly meeting of the St. Matthew's Ladies' Guild was held recently at the home of Mrs. H. A. Hincks. The secretary, Mrs. J. E. MacDonald, read the reports and gave the financial statement of the Christmas sale, which was held recently. The church will be decorated by members of the guild on Thursday, December 20. The annual meeting for the election of officers will take place at "Marshwood," Station Road, the home of Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen, on January 14. Tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss S. Hincks and Miss A. Bond.

Queen of the Island Lodge

A successful "aluminum supper" was held by Queen of the Island Lodge, L.O.B.A., in the Orange Hall, on Wednesday. About fifty persons attended. Court whist was played later. The prizes were won by Miss M. Checkley and Mrs. Berry, first, and Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Dresner, consolation. The Christmas cake was won by Mrs. Dyon, Graham Street, and the sweater by Mrs. Carlow, John Street. The next meeting has been changed to Friday, December 28, when installation of officers will take place. Members are asked to bring refreshments.

Laffmor Bridge Club

The Laffmor Bridge Club met on Tuesday evening, at the home of Miss Iola Carter, 3488 Doncaster Drive. First prize was won by Miss Elena Jones, and consolation by Miss Phyllis Burwash. Members attending were Dorothy Appleby, Phyllis Burwash, Elena Jones, Ivy Salter, Mona Ostler, Barbara Dawson, Ruth Burwash, Margaret Frampton, Barrie Taylor, Thelma Ostler, Hazel Carter and Lola Carter. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Barbara Dawson, Cedar Hill Road, on January 8.

Annual Meeting

St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Young Business Women's Branch of the W.A. held its annual meeting on Tuesday evening. Those elected to office for the ensuing year were: Mrs. Frew, president; Miss Turkington, vice-president; Miss Hasenfratz, secretary; Miss E. Parker, treasurer; Mrs. Rogers, Dorcas secretary; Miss A. Stocken, educational secretary; Miss A. Stocken, superintendent of the girls' branch of the W.A., which will be formed in the new year.

Langford W.A.

A business meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Prince Edward Branch, No. 91, of the Canadian Legion, was held at the home of Mrs. A. G. Mackie. Final arrangements were made for the tea, which is being sponsored by the W.A. for returned soldiers' children under the age of twelve years. The tea will be held in the legion clubrooms, on December 22, from 5 to 8 o'clock. All children of returned men under that age are cordially invited to attend.

St. Alban's Society

At a meeting of the St. Alban's Ladies' Society held recently, the election of officers took place, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. F. W. Weaver; vice-president, Mrs. E. Ovendon; secretary, Mrs. E. M. Trickett; and treasurer, Mrs. K. Banister. The next meeting will be held on January 2 at 2:30 o'clock.

Esquimalt League

A turkey whist drive will be held in the Queen of Peace Church Hall, on Wednesday, December 19, at 8 p.m., under the auspices of the Esquimalt Catholic Women's League. Refreshments will be served.

Y.P.S. News

CATHOLIC

The monthly business meeting of the Catholic Young People's Club was held Thursday evening, in the Parish Hall. Discussion on the annual elections occupied the greater part of the meeting. A motion was passed to hold elections annually, and as a result, the members will nominate and vote for their respective candidates in the second week in January. The elections will be conducted along the lines of an election procedure as outlined by Victor Montaldi and added to the constitution by the vote of the meeting. A committee was appointed for the club dance, to be held early in February. A donation of $5 was voted by the club to be given to the St. Vincent de Paul Society in aid of Christmas hampers, in addition to a collection taken up at the meeting. A letter of condolence was sent to Richard Duncan, president of the Esquimalt Young People's Catholic Club, whose mother, Mrs. R. A. Duncan, passed away earlier in the week. A satisfactory report was given on the refreshment booth operated by the club at the recent bazaar of the Catholic Women's League. The bowling league pennant is being warmly competed for by the four leading teams. The Flashes and Pansies are tied for first place, with twelve wins and six losses each, while the Little Wonders and Red Devils are in a deadlock for second position, with ten wins and eight losses apiece. The Moguls are next, with seven wins and eleven losses, while the Shamrocks are in the cellar, having secured but three wins. Tom O'Connell is leading in the highest bowling average race.

EMMANUEL

The regular meeting of the Emmanuel Y.P.S. was held on Tuesday, in the schoolroom. Rev. Dr. A. S. Imrie conducted the Bible study. Miss E. Zala gave an interesting biography of Florence Nightingale, which was much enjoyed.

P-T A. Activities

The Mount View P-T.A. held its monthly meeting on Thursday evening in the High School. On December 19, the P-T.A. will hold a turkey drive and dance. Special Christmas novelties will also be introduced. It was decided to donate the net proceeds of this dance and card party to the Sanich Welfare hamper fund. On behalf of the P-T.A., the president, Mr. R. A. Prendergast, presented Mr. and Mrs. J. Lane with a handsome silver cake plate.

PARIS (UP).

Just arrived from London—she has a shop there, too—and she arrived in a sweeping cape of saffron Alaskan seal and fur mitts.

The mitts are the kind one sees "up state" in Maine on "smarties" trailing deer along the "Penobscot." These Schiap mitts have nice soft kid inside the hands and are gathered close to the wrist, exactly like a child's wool mittens. No more cold fingers.

Nor feet. One ought to see the moccasins she is showing with her ski suits. They really are hand-knitted socks, ankle-high, with nice green kid tips over the toes and a bit of kid to hold the heel in shape. This is a fact that is apt to "take" whether with ski suits or without.

The crepe de Chine industry is shedding a sullen tear because of the lack of lingerie question. It is definitely "out," you know. A few nightgowns still are sold, but positively nothing else. One sees the other items in windows, but nobody buys them any more. And Winter coming on!

Schiaparelli's advice to that is that with her fur mitts and wool moccasin-socks, one's hands and feet will be warm as toast. Of course, a fur coat isn't a bad idea: a sort of in-between.

Donations to Hospital Are Made by W.A.

Many donations to St. Joseph's Hospital were made by the senior Women's Auxiliary to the hospital, at the business meeting held yesterday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Frank Sehl, in charge. Among the many articles to be given to the hospital are an additional tube and screen for the X-ray department; register for the doctors, to be placed at the Collinson Street entrance; bathrobes for patients of the common ward; a Mayo fracture bed, and five spring air mattresses.

The sewing convener, Mrs. S. T. Porter, announced that 1,583 pieces had been completed, of which 345 were pieces of work and 1,240 sponges. It was reported that the sum of $933.33 was realized from the bazaar, which was most successful, and held through the co-operation of the members, who received praise from Sister Superior.

Greetings for Christmas and the New Year were expressed to the members by Sister Superior, on behalf of all the sisters. Mrs. Sehl and Mrs. Fraser, for the members of the auxiliary, asked Sister Superior to extend their best wishes to the sisters for a happy and successful season. There will be no meetings of the auxiliary until January 4.

"See how baby enjoys her ride today, Polly. I think Castoria has done perfect wonders for her!"

"Yes, I see it has, Louise. Castoria has helped thousands of children. It's especially good for acid stomach. You know, it doesn't contain any of the harmful drugs that often are in adult laxatives. Castoria is pleasant to take, too—tastes awfully good."

Cookery Books Lacking In Practical Advice

Mrs. Desmond, writing in the National Review, complains that the modern cookery book has become so refined that it is practically useless. Illustrated with woodcuts of hunting scenes after the Beaufort tapestry, and with strange still-life groups of fish slipping off plates on a table with one leg, its chapters headed by quotations from the poets and liberally sprinkled with foreign languages, it is calculated to inspire awe or amusement in the breast of the average cook, while to the woman who seeks its advice in emergency, anxious to know for how long one boils a potato, it is merely an added exasperation to be told that "Gnocchi Alla Romano" is a savory form of semolina.

COOKING DIFFICULTIES

The writer continues:

"Most women at some time in their lives have had cooking thrust upon them. Alone in the cold dawn they have gazed upon a kitchen range, lifeless as an extinct volcano and heavy with the cinders of last night's cheerful fire, and they have no doubt reflected with awe that it is with this instrument that one boils one's egg. Yet in what cookery book is one told how to light, clean, and manage a kitchen range?

"There is also, we all know, an immense scope for error in cooking. Pastry, for instance, possesses a hereditary longing to become bread. One of the most delicious puddings ever made was intended to be an apple-pie; it entered as apple embedded in a cottage loaf, a result that has never since been achieved by anyone. The secret of making pastry apparently is that one should start out to make bread, and vice versa. No cookery book tells one things like that.

A Charming Portrait Study

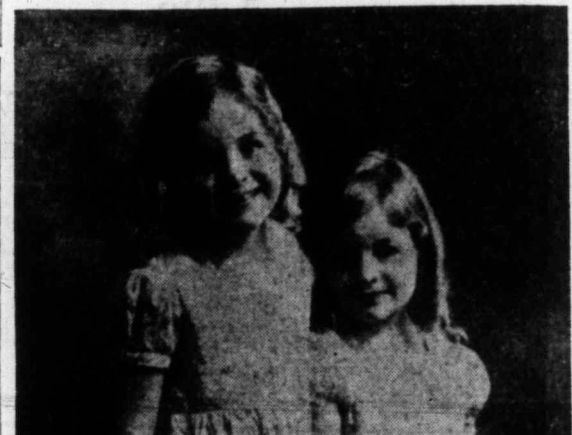

"In fact, no cookery book tells one anything that one wants to know, such as how to get the skin off fish, leaving some fish, or what to do when faced with a dead chicken whose internal arrangements are still intact. (It is possible to treat it as a woodcock, but not everyone has the courage to do this). Then rabbits—what cookery book is coarse enough to inform one fully about rabbits?

"In the country one buys a rabbit from some poacher and it is covered with fur, which no known process of cookery will render palatable. If one has a man about, and he has not been made squeamish and useless by a public school education, he will take it away, and it will come back so attended to that one can put it in a casserole and forget its past. But if one were on a desert island with the modern cookery book and a Balliol scholar, one would starve, or eat fur.

"Even the beloved Mrs. Beeton is not entirely practical. She is apt to pre-suppose a kitchen maid with unlimited time and the muscular development of a pugilist. 'Beat for three hours,' 'Whip till stiff.' How often on a hot day has the amateur cook turned with a shudder from instructions of this variety and sought the kindly 'place in a casserole and forget for four hours,' or 'pour into a mould and leave till set.' The ideal cookless cookery book should have a chapter on ranges and how to handle them (with first-aid instructions for the fatally burnt). One on saucepans and how to clean them with the minimum of effort and the maximum of effect. It should list the best washing up machines. It should have a list of food guaranteed not to go bad in hot weather, and another list of necessities which are never to be found in kitchen cupboards. It should include an accurate timetable for boiling, baking and roasting, and it should tell the ingenious housewife of the various ways in which tradesmen cheat her and the suitable reprisals she can take.

"The final complaint about the modern fashionable cookery books is that they are written for people who breakfast in bed, not, as they should be, for the woman whose cook has fled."

Christmas Plans Made at Y.W.C.A.

—Photograph by Hester Wilkinson.

The December meeting of the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. was held yesterday afternoon in the association's building, Mrs. Roy Angus presiding.

The general secretary reported that a Christmas dinner and party is planned for Thursday night, December 20, to which girls and young women will be invited, and a Christmas vespers service will be held Sunday, December 23, at 4 p.m. On Christmas Day the regular Christmas dinner will be served in the dining-room. A New Year's Eve party is to be held in the Y.W.C.A. in co-operation with the Y.M.C.A. A programme of music and dancing is being arranged.

The girls' work committee recommended that a Valentine bridge be held in February to raise funds for the girls' work budget, the board members being asked to arrange tables. This was passed by the board.

ADDRESSES MEETING Mrs. H. Cassidy addressed the meeting, explaining the code suggested by the economic committee of the National Y.W.C.A., and the status of girls and women employed in household work. Mrs. Cassidy was a member of the committee at the time this code was drawn up. A lengthy discussion took place, the general feeling being that adequate wages and proper living conditions for girls and women engaged in household work are greatly to be desired and every effort should be made to further the cause with this object in view.

These very attractive little girls are Evelyn Mary, aged five, and Anne Elizabeth, who is three, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gill, Quadra Street. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Birkett, Grange Road, Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gill, of Bude, Cornwall, England.

Social and Personal Notes

Pipe Band Dance

The First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, pipe band held a most successful dance at the A.O.F. Hall last evening, about 250 guests taking part in a spirited programme of dance numbers, which included many reels and scottisches and other Scottish dances, which are becoming so popular, and in which the dancers are growing most proficient. The dance committee was headed by Sgt. C. Milton, who was assisted by Sgt. C. Milton, Sgt. J. Gow, Cpl. J. Marks and Cpl. A. Ramsay. A four-piece orchestra was in attendance, and supper was served in the banquet hall downstairs, where the tables were gay with flowers. In the ballroom, the battalion crest held the place of honor among the decorations on the walls. Among the officers attending were: Col. D. B. Martyn, with Mrs. Martyn; Col. Brooke, Stephenson, with Mrs. Stephenson; Col. Walter Bapty, Major W. G. Colquhoun, with Mrs. Colquhoun; Major H. M. McGivern, with Mrs. McGivern, and Major E. Henderson.

Back From South Mrs. Marion Angus, who accompanied Miss Kathleen Elliott and Mrs. C. F. Connor and her small daughter, Kay, on a motor trip to California, is a visitor in the city. The party visited San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Palm Springs, Monterey, San Diego and other points of interest.

Here for Christmas Miss Elaine Adam, who is attending the University of British Columbia, arrived in the city recently and will spend the Christmas season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Adam, Richardson Street.

Returns to Vancouver Mrs. J. U. Copeman, who has been spending the past two weeks with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wootton, Monterey Avenue, has returned to her home in Vancouver.

Returns to City Mrs. R. W. Shannon, who has been visiting in Calgary and Edmonton, has returned to the city. Mr. and Mrs. Shannon have taken up residence at Rockland Court.

Holiday in South Mrs. J. Peacey, of Mendocino Street, left recently for California, where she will spend a few weeks' holiday with friends at Santa Barbara.

Leaves for Montreal Mr. E. Musgrave, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Musgrave, Goodwin Street, Oak Bay, has returned to Montreal.

Nanaimo Visitors Miss J. Grace and Miss M. Grant, both of Nanaimo, are spending a few days' holiday at the Dominion Hotel.

Visiting Children Mr. and Mrs. Cecil French left yesterday for Toronto, where they will spend Christmas with their son and daughter.

At Glenishiel Hotel Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Porter, of Duncan, are staying at the Glenishiel Hotel.

Here From Winnipeg Mr. E. R. Mills, of Winnipeg, is staying at the Glenishiel Hotel.

"We ought to have named that boy 'Flannel'." "Why, my dear, why?" "Because he shrinks so from washing."

Wife Preservers When bittersweet becomes dusty and shriveled, put it out in the rain to revive and freshen. Dipping it into water will have the same result.

Dies in Virginia The many friends of Elizabeth Moore, beloved wife of Mr. J. W. Moore, formerly of the firm of Moore & Bethick, late engineers of Victoria, will be grieved to learn of her recent death in Virginia. She had a host of friends in Victoria, where she had been deeply interested in a number of charitable undertakings and was an ardent worker with the Red Cross Society during the war.

Christmas Here Mr. Frank Stevens, who is attending the University of British Columbia, will spend his Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Stevens, of Newport Avenue. Mr. Kenneth Stevens, who is a student at the Royal Military College at Kingston, will spend the Christmas season with friends at Smith's Falls.

Will Arrive Next Week Mr. and Mrs. C. Eden Quainton and their baby son, Anthony, will arrive in the city next week and spend the Yuletide season here with Mr. Quainton's parents, Very Rev.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CHUTNEY TOAST—This is a very nice entrée, or can be used as a lunch dish with great success. One ounce of chutney, two ounces of ham, one ounce of cream, one ounce of grated cheese, salt and cayenne and some croutons of bread. Mince the ham and mix with the cream, season well and spread on rounds of bread (fried). Put a layer of chutney and the grated cheese, brown in the oven for a few minutes, and serve hot. It is a most tasty and delicious dish.—Prudence.

The girls' work committee recommended that a Valentine bridge be held in February to raise funds for the girls' work budget, the board members being asked to arrange tables. This was passed by the board.

ADDRESSES MEETING Mrs. H. Cassidy addressed the meeting, explaining the code suggested by the economic committee of the National Y.W.C.A., and the status of girls and women employed in household work. Mrs. Cassidy was a member of the committee at the time this code was drawn up. A lengthy discussion took place, the general feeling being that adequate wages and proper living conditions for girls and women engaged in household work are greatly to be desired and every effort should be made to further the cause with this object in view.

These very attractive little girls are Evelyn Mary, aged five, and Anne Elizabeth, who is three, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gill, Quadra Street. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Birkett, Grange Road, Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gill, of Bude, Cornwall, England.

Social and Personal Notes

Pipe Band Dance

The First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, pipe band held a most successful dance at the A.O.F. Hall last evening, about 250 guests taking part in a spirited programme of dance numbers, which included many reels and scottisches and other Scottish dances, which are becoming so popular, and in which the dancers are growing most proficient. The dance committee was headed by Sgt. C. Milton, who was assisted by Sgt. C. Milton, Sgt. J. Gow, Cpl. J. Marks and Cpl. A. Ramsay. A four-piece orchestra was in attendance, and supper was served in the banquet hall downstairs, where the tables were gay with flowers. In the ballroom, the battalion crest held the place of honor among the decorations on the walls. Among the officers attending were: Col. D. B. Martyn, with Mrs. Martyn; Col. Brooke, Stephenson, with Mrs. Stephenson; Col. Walter Bapty, Major W. G. Colquhoun, with Mrs. Colquhoun; Major H. M. McGivern, with Mrs. McGivern, and Major E. Henderson.

Back From South Mrs. Marion Angus, who accompanied Miss Kathleen Elliott and Mrs. C. F. Connor and her small daughter, Kay, on a motor trip to California, is a visitor in the city. The party visited San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Palm Springs, Monterey, San Diego and other points of interest.

Here for Christmas Miss Elaine Adam, who is attending the University of British Columbia, arrived in the city recently and will spend the Christmas season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Adam, Richardson Street.

Returns to Vancouver Mrs. J. U. Copeman, who has been spending the past two weeks with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wootton, Monterey Avenue, has returned to her home in Vancouver.

Returns to City Mrs. R. W. Shannon, who has been visiting in Calgary and Edmonton, has returned to the city. Mr. and Mrs. Shannon have taken up residence at Rockland Court.

Holiday in South Mrs. J. Peacey, of Mendocino Street, left recently for California, where she will spend a few weeks' holiday with friends at Santa Barbara.

Leaves for Montreal Mr. E. Musgrave, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Musgrave, Goodwin Street, Oak Bay, has returned to Montreal.

Nanaimo Visitors Miss J. Grace and Miss M. Grant, both of Nanaimo, are spending a few days' holiday at the Dominion Hotel.

Visiting Children Mr. and Mrs. Cecil French left yesterday for Toronto, where they will spend Christmas with their son and daughter.

At Glenishiel Hotel Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Porter, of Duncan, are staying at the Glenishiel Hotel.

Here From Winnipeg Mr. E. R. Mills, of Winnipeg, is staying at the Glenishiel Hotel.

"We ought to have named that boy 'Flannel'." "Why, my dear, why?" "Because he shrinks so from washing."

Wife Preservers When bittersweet becomes dusty and shriveled, put it out in the rain to revive and freshen. Dipping it into water will have the same result.

Dies in Virginia The many friends of Elizabeth Moore, beloved wife of Mr. J. W. Moore, formerly of the firm of Moore & Bethick, late engineers of Victoria, will be grieved to learn of her recent death in Virginia. She had a host of friends in Victoria, where she had been deeply interested in a number of charitable undertakings and was an ardent worker with the Red Cross Society during the war.

Christmas Here Mr. Frank Stevens, who is attending the University of British Columbia, will spend his Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Stevens, of Newport Avenue. Mr. Kenneth Stevens, who is a student at the Royal Military College at Kingston, will spend the Christmas season with friends at Smith's Falls.

Will Arrive Next Week Mr. and Mrs. C. Eden Quainton and their baby son, Anthony, will arrive in the city next week and spend the Yuletide season here with Mr. Quainton's parents, Very Rev.

Children to Impersonate Santa Claus

Thirty boys and girls, members of the families who are clients of the Friendly Help-Welfare Association, are getting ready to play Santa Claus to their families this year. They meet in the big rooms at the association headquarters, Pandora Avenue, after school, and are making all sorts of pretty and useful things. Volunteer helpers are on hand to give suggestions and help over the difficult parts.

Little ones are busy making vases from colored paper pasted on bottles, then shellacked. Others are making needle-books, bookmarks and pen-wipers. The older girls are doing some exceptionally clever Christmas cards. They take the ordinary type-writing paper, treat it with oil and turpentine, and draw a design and lettering on the outside of the folded paper. A novel candlestick has been achieved from the heavy circular piece of cardboard which comes at the end of large rolls of paper. This is treated and the outside glazed with shells and brightly-colored pebbles. The children are thrilled with importance and pride in their work, especially as the pretty things they are making are fashioned from what would otherwise be discarded.

J. Hodges, of the Red Cross Workshop, is supervising a group of older lads, who are interested in carpentry. They are making book-ends, letter-racks and other things for their families, from old boxes and odds and ends of wood. Among the volunteer assistants are girls from the Strathcona Lodge Old Girls' Association, as well as from other service groups in the city.

"THE CHILD"

By REGINALD H. WIGGINS, M.D., C.M., F.M.C.C.

DEVELOPMENT Our aim in the training of the child is to develop an able intellect and a stable temperament. These can only be built on the sure foundation of a healthy, vigorous physique.

With the growth of the child's bodily functions and mental equipment the urge to independence begins to assert itself. It is then that parents must learn to stand aside and let the little one meet the new situations for himself. Only in this way will he learn and acquire knowledge of the world about him.

When the child plainly shows that he wants to help do things, accept his help graciously and encourage him to the full. If the parent responds to the child's earliest demands for independence there will be laid a certain basis for self-reliance and the willing acceptance of responsibility in later life. We must learn to stand back until he has done his utmost unaided.

The child of the parent who constantly interferes and who is impatient will become a dependent adult and we know these people to have very mediocre possibilities for achievement.

During the first six years the child learns the most from his mother, but towards the close of this period he turns to his father. He becomes interested in things primarily masculine, and begins to copy the type of life represented by his father and other men and boys.

We are now at the period when driving force of his own. His individualism will more and more assert itself. The time has arrived when parents must give the child opportunity for self-expression and not withhold from him the benefit of their more mature wisdom and understanding—the result of their greater experience.

Little Bedtime Stories Peter Rabbit Is in a Pickle

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

If Peter Rabbit could have heard what the friends who were watching him were saying to each other his long ears certainly would have burned. There wasn't one among them who believed that Peter really intended to go over to that flying machine which had come down close by the dear Old Briar Patch. There wasn't one among them who for one minute believed that Peter would dare do such a thing. But though they didn't believe he would go so far as this, they were forced to admire him for going out in plain sight on the Green Meadows at all. Not one of them dared do such a thing, for all of them still believed that the flying machine was a living thing, a terrible giant. They had not forgotten how it had chased Blacky the Crow, and Reddy Fox and Mrs. Fox.

"Any way you'd have to give Peter some credit for daring to go out on the Green Meadows," said Johnny Chuck, peeping over the old stone wall on the edge of the Old Orchard. "Credit nothing!" exclaimed Chatterer the Red Squirrel, whisking up into an old apple tree so that he might see better. "Credit nothing! Peter just hasn't sense enough to know any better."

Now, Peter didn't know all these things that were being said, and perhaps it is just as well that he didn't. He kept on going, lipperty-lipperty-lip, stopping to sit up every few jumps. Presently he saw a man leave the machine and start across the Green Meadows toward Farmer Brown's house. Peter sighed with relief. He hurried faster then.

All the little people watching saw the man going toward Farmer Brown's house and they didn't know what to make of it. Then they saw Peter disappear in the dear Old Briar Patch. A few minutes later they saw him come out on the other side. They saw him hop very slowly toward the terrible giant. Then they saw him disappear beneath it. By and by they saw him go all around it. Peter had made good.

Answers to these questions must be delivered, mailed or telephoned, the same day as question is published, and addressed to Macan & Mitchell Bridge Studios, 221-2 Pemberton Building.

Answer to Question No. 50

One spade. While at first sight the natural bid would appear to be 2NT, with two and a half honor tricks, the hand lacks intermediates. The one over bid will keep the bidding open and on the next round of bidding supply an opportunity for you to give your partner a better picture of your hand than the immediate call of 2NT could do.

This is another typical prepared bid. Technically the spade is not biddable. It is necessary on occasions to choose the lesser of two evils, and one can expect success by rigid adherence to bidding formulae.

Churches and Their World-Wide Work

TO SHOW FAULT OF CAPITALISM

Rev. E. F. Church Will Give Second Topical Sermon at Metropolitan

Rev. E. F. Church will continue his study of the present social order, and particularly of the capitalist system, on Sunday evening, at Metropolitan United Church. Last week he discussed the values to be seen in the system, and on Sunday he will examine the defects, entitling his theme "Some Fundamental Defects of the Capitalistic System." The choir will sing, by request, the anthem, "Hail, Gladdening Light" (Martini), and Mrs. T. H. Johns will sing "By the Waters of Babylon" (Evil).

Previous to the evening service, Rev. J. H. A. Warr will lead a song service of Christmas carols, with Edward Parsons presiding at the console of the organ.

At the morning service Mr. Church will preach a second sermon in a series leading up to the Advent, under the caption "That It Might Be Fulfilled." The choir will sing the anthem, under the direction of Frank Tupperman, "The Sun Shall Be No More" (Woodward), and Mrs. W. S. Moore will render Hamblen's composition, "O Babe Divine."

On Monday evening the young people will present an evening of Christmas plays and carols, to which the public is cordially invited.

SUPPLY MINISTER TO PREACH AGAIN

Rev. S. B. Hillocks at St. Andrew's on "Moral Progress, and 'Image, Stone and Kingdom'"

Rev. S. B. Hillocks, L.L.B., will again occupy the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church tomorrow in the absence, through sickness, of the minister, Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, B.A.

Mr. Hillocks will take as his morning theme "The Moral Progress of the World," and in the evening, "The Image, the Stone and the Kingdom."

In the morning the soloist will be Miss Phyllis Deaville, who will sing "My Task" (Ashford). The choir will sing Sullivan's anthem, "Hearken Unto Me, My People."

In the evening, Miss Catherine Denison will sing "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions" (Ward-Stephens). The anthem will be "Angels Voices Ever Singing" (Vine-Hall). Miss Isabelle Crawford singing the solo.

Salvation Queen Takes Throne as People's Servant

IN England a new queen has ascended the throne. The royal lady is English, but she is not an English queen nor her royal seat the English throne. She is an international queen. Evangeline Booth is thus world leader. Like her father, she is a born ruler, like him, also, devoting her brilliant talents to the service of humanity. A sketch of one who is held to be one of the great women of the century will appear in tomorrow's issue.

TO HOLD SERVICE FOR WHITE GIFTS

Old and Young at Fairfield United Will Bring Donations for Christmas Hampers

Tomorrow is "White Gifts for the King" Sunday at Fairfield United Church. The Sunday school will meet at 10:30 o'clock, and will unite with the congregation at 11, in a programme of great interest.

The church will be beautifully decorated for the occasion, and gifts wrapped in white, to be used later for Christmas hampers, will be presented by young and old. A junior girls' choir, in white surplices, will sing, and Dr. Henry will tell some Christmas stories. Miss Isabelle Crawford will sing "The Gift" (Behrend), and the church choir will give the anthem, "How Lovely Are the Messengers" (Mendelssohn).

At 7:15 o'clock, songs of the season will be sung, followed at 7:30 by public worship, when Dr. Henry will speak on "Transformed Obscurity." There will be a solo, "The Holy City" (Adams), by L. Abbott, and an anthem, "Though Poor Be the Chamber" (Gounod), by the choir.

The monthly supper meeting of the Fairfield Men's Club will be held on Monday, at 6:45 o'clock, with Major Harry Watts as guest speaker.

Dr. G. B. Switzer's Sermons at Oak Bay United Deal With Home and Husband

"On the Road to Home, Sweet Home" will be the topic of Dr. Gerald Breen Switzer at the Oak Bay United Church tomorrow morning. Shortly, thousands will be coming home for Christmas festivities or going to friends' homes, and the theme will deal with some of the things that make such gatherings memorable. Mrs. K. Collett will sing "Home, Sweet Home."

"What Does His Wife See in Him?" will be the pastor's evening subject, under the direction of Wendell H. Ruffell, the choir will sing pre-Christmas music at both services.

Rev. G. A. Reynolds, of the First Baptist Church, will give an address on "My Recent Visit to Germany" on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Obypa Club.

WILL PREPARE FOR ORATORIO

Organist Stanley Builey to Give Lecture at Cathedral After Evensong

There will be celebrations of Holy Communion in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday at 8, 9 and 12:15 o'clock. The preacher at the 11 o'clock service will be Rev. T. R. Lancaster.

The Dean of Columbia will preach at Evensong, which will be shortened in order that Stanley Builey, the Cathedral organist, may begin at 8:30 promptly, his lecture, "How to Listen to Handel's 'Messiah'." This lecture will be introductory to the performance of "The Messiah" next Wednesday.

Under the direction of the staff and students of St. Christopher's College, scholars of the Cathedral Sunday schools will present a Nativity Play in the Cathedral on Thursday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. At the conclusion of the last scene, "The Visit of the Magi," the annual Christmas tree service will be held, when the children of the schools will present their gifts of fruit and tinned goods, which will later be included in the hampers to be distributed in the parish. Everyone will be welcomed at the play.

Chamber in Pyramid to Be Shown

"The Great Day of the Lord and the Wise and Foolish Virgins, as Pictured in the Bible and in the Great Pyramid," will be the theme of an address to be given by E. E. Richards on Monday at 8 o'clock in the Campbell Building, Douglas Street.

In presenting this great subject, the speaker will draw attention to other Scriptures which emphasize the nearness of the predictions to fulfillment. The wonderful manner in which the events are exemplified in the metrology, chronology, the symbology of the "Second Low Passage and King's Chamber" of the Great Pyramid will be demonstrated by lantern slides on the screen.

WILL RETURN TO MOVING SUBJECT

Rev. J. B. Rowell to Preach on "Heartrending Cry of Parent Over Lost Son"

The message the pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Rev. J. B. Rowell, feels he must give on Sunday evening is the one which had to be postponed from last Sunday, viz., "A Heartrending Cry of a Parent Over a Lost Son—A Message Concerning Our Homes and Our Boys and Girls."

The morning message is vital to all Christians in connection with the series, entitled, "Revival, Christianity and Reality," the subject being "Lacking Revival Through Lacking Knowledge of Heaven's Standards for Christians in Home, Office and Workshop." The Lord's Supper will be observed.

SACRIFICE WILL BE DISCUSSED

Rev. G. A. Reynolds to Answer Questions at Morning Service—Evening, "The Wearing Christ"

Rev. G. A. Reynolds will occupy the pulpit of First Baptist Church on Sunday. The minister will answer the following questions at the morning service: "Does Christianity mean cross-bearing?" "What is my peculiar cross?" "What am I to do with it?" "Is cross-bearing a test of discipleship?" (Matt. x, 38). The choir will sing Kent's "Thine, O Lord, Is the Greatness." Cornet solo by G. H. E. Green.

At the evening service the minister will use for his subject, "The Wearing Christ, as Pictured by the Well in Samaria" (John iv, 6). The male quartette will sing "Heavenly Father, Great Creator."

NON-RESISTANCE TO BE DISCUSSED

W. Newell Weston Will Present Appealing Theme at Victoria Truth Centre Tomorrow Evening

At the Victoria Truth Centre tomorrow morning, W. Wesley Newton will speak on "The Compulsion of Truth." There will be a solo by Mr. Jackson, "Nazareth" (Gounod).

At 7:30 o'clock Mr. Weston's topic will be "The Magic of Non-Resistance." There will be a solo by Mr. Durrant, "Holy Night" (Gruber).

The young people's meeting occurs on Tuesday evening. The subject of the Wednesday evening meeting, at 8 o'clock, is "The Healing of All Things," and on Friday evening, at the same hour, "Fundamentals of Truth."

General Evangeline Booth, newly-elected head of the Salvation Army, will visit Canada in the Fall of 1935 to conduct the Army's Canadian Congress. For several years before her transference to the United States, Miss Booth was Canadian commander-in-chief.

Bishop Sleeps on $20,000 Couch

RT. REV. A. L. FLEMING, D.D., Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, has set a new record in episcopal oversight when he covered practically all the Western and Central Arctic regions in three months this summer.

Using every modern means of transportation possible, the bishop traveled 8,710 miles by train, 4,062 miles by airplane, and 1,650 miles by water, a total of 14,422 miles in that time. On one trip, in the crowded hold of an airplane, he spread his sleeping robe on seven bales of fur, valued at $20,000. "Valuable couch, but not comfortable," was the bishop's comment.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO TAKE PART

Anglican Youth Will Hold Rally at St. John's Sunday Evening

The services at St. John's Church for the Third Sunday in Advent will consist of Holy Communion at 8 o'clock, Morning Prayer and sermon at 11, and Evensong and A.Y.P.A. rally at 7:30. The rector, Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, will preach at the 8 o'clock service on "The Lord's Messenger."

In the evening there will be an organ recital by G. Jennings Burnett before the evening service, commencing at 7:10 o'clock, followed by a young people's rally, the details of which will be specially arranged by the Anglican Youth People's Association.

The lessons will be read by two officers of the Local Council, the hymns selected by the young people's committee, and the ushering carried out under their auspices. The address will be given by Canon Chadwick, who takes a great interest in the work of the A.Y.P.A., the subject being "The Shining Starway."

After the service, a "Fellowship Hour" will be conducted in the Sunday school auditorium by John Hooper, during which there will be hymn singing and sacred music supplied by the different local branches, and refreshments served by St. John's A.Y.P.A.

LOYALTY TO BE SERMON SUBJECT

"Christian Loyalty" will be the sermon subject at Grace Lutheran Church tomorrow, when the pastor, Rev. Theo. A. Jensen, will preach. The choir will sing "The Christmas Glory Song" (I. H. Meredith). At 7 o'clock in the evening the Luther League will meet to discuss the subject, "Good Will to Strangers." Miss Elsa Pagenberg will be the leader.

At 7:45 the pastor will preach on "When Prepare for Christ?" and the choir will sing "Are You Ready for the Kingdom?" (Samuel W. Beazley).

YEARLY PRACTICE TO BE FOLLOWED

Following the yearly practice of this congregation, the Church of Our Lord will hold a White Gift Christmas service on Sunday evening. A Christmas tree and bright-carol singing, beginning at 7 o'clock, will feature the service of giving, at which donations will be made for those in need. The rector, Rev. A. de B. Owen, will give a short sermon.

WALTER HOLDER TO GIVE ADDRESS AT SPIRITUAL SCIENCE

"Who Is God?" will be the subject of an address to be given by Walter Holder, formerly of Calgary, on Sunday at 7:30 o'clock at the Spiritual Science Temple in the Burns Hall, 1406 Douglas Street.

Messages, healing and prosperity vapors will be featured at the evening service.

General Evangeline Booth, newly-elected head of the Salvation Army, will visit Canada in the Fall of 1935 to conduct the Army's Canadian Congress. For several years before her transference to the United States, Miss Booth was Canadian commander-in-chief.

THEMES TO FIT THE OCCASION

Dr. Thompson's Morning Topic Is "Christ Before the First Christmas"

On Sunday the services at Victoria City Temple, 842 North Park Street, will reflect the happy spirit of the season. Rev. W. J. Thompson, B.A., D.D., pastor, will deliver two very appropriate sermons, the morning subject being "The Story of Christ Before the First Christmas!" and the evening theme "The Road to Christmas!"

The City Temple choir will render "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom and Thanks" (Bach), during the morning service. In the evening the choir will sing "Arise! Shine, for Thy Light Is Come!" (Ely), and "Learn to Hope" (Lyons).

The Canadian Legion Band will give a concert in the City Temple auditorium at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

VICE-PRESIDENT TO BE SPEAKER

"Are You Ready for the New World Order?" Is Lecture Topic of N. Y. Cross

The Victoria and District Association of the British-Israel Federation (Canada) will be addressed by the vice-president, N. Y. Cross, next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Foresters' Hall, 750 Cormorant Street.

Under the title of "Are You Ready for a New World Order?" Mr. Cross will point to the universal belief that the world is entering upon a new era and express his opinion of the form of change that has occurred, and what may be expected to emerge from the present maze of conflicting thought and endeavor.

CHRIST'S REALITY TO BE PRESENTED

Dr. A. S. Imrie Has Devotional Theme in Evening—Morning, "Seeking Bride for Isaac"

"Seeking a Bride for Isaac" will be Dr. Andrew S. Imrie's theme on Lord's Day morning at Emmanuel Baptist Church, Fernwood Road and Gladstone Street. The pastor's evening subject is "Making Christ Real."

Music for the day, under the direction of W. H. Muncy, will be a morning anthem, "Arise! Shine, for Thy Light Is Come," and an evening anthem, "Rejoice Greatly" (Maker).

The soloist will be Mrs. Carver.

Duncan Speaker To Give Lecture On Upward Path

At the First Spiritualist Church, Sons of England Hall, Broad Street, there will be a public circle on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. At the evening service the speaker will be Rev. Ada Dancy, of Duncan. Mrs. Dancy, who is well known in Victoria, will take for her subject, "The Path of Spiritual Attainment." There will be messages at the close of the service.

Churches Planning To Provide Many Christmas Hampers

THAT the churches, along with other groups, are planning provision for the needy, is evident from the announcements on this page. The beautiful service of "White Gifts for the King" will be carried out in some churches, and at the foot of decorated fir trees, to the accompaniment of carol singing, will be laid supplies for many a Christmas hamper.

CENTENNIAL HAS CHOICE CANTATA

"Story of Bethlehem" Will Be Rendered Tomorrow Afternoon by Choir and Soloists

There will be a twilight recital at Centennial United Church tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock, when the choir, under the direction of J. W. Buckler, will present "The Story of Bethlehem," a sacred cantata for Christmas services. The words are by Shapcott Wensley and the music by John Ekezer West.

Proceeding the cantata, solos will be given by Mrs. Georgina Watt and Miss Phyllis Deaville, and the Centennial Male Quartette, consisting of Frank Hollins, George Farmer, J. W. Buckler and H. S. Benham, will be heard in two numbers.

The programme is as follows: Quartettes, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" (Ellor), and "Silent Night" (Adams), Centennial Male Quartette; solo, "He Was Despised" ("Messiah"), Mrs. Georgina Watt; solo, "The Infant King" (Kennedy), Miss Phyllis Deaville.

Cantata, "The Story of Bethlehem" (J. E. West): Introduction, "Bethlehem, O Bethlehem," J. Almond and choir; tenor solo, "O'er Salem's Towers and Zion's Steep," George Farmer; recit, bass, "O Lonely Watchers," J. Almond; "A Light From the Land Immortal," Mrs. W. C. Williams and choir; recit, bass, "Let Us Now Go—Even Unto Bethlehem," J. Almond; hymn, choir and congregation, "O Come All Ye Faithful," soprano solo, "In Bethlehem's Ancient City," Miss Janet Hay; recit, bass, "And the Shepherds Made Known the Story," J. Almond; chorus and duet, "Now O'er the Plains," F. Hollins, J. Almond and choir; recit, bass, "Shepherds of Bethlehem Rejoice," J. Almond; chorus and quartette, "Rejoice, Ye Nations," Mrs. Evelyn Eden, Mrs. Leach, G. Farmer, J. W. Buckler and choir. Mrs. Paul Green will be at the organ console.

There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken towards the choir music fund.

Christadelphian Subject Will Be Peace on Earth

"Peace on Earth" will be the topic for Sunday night at the Shrine Temple. The question, "Is it to be?" and "If so, when?" will be discussed by the speaker under the auspices of the Christadelphians meeting in that place. It will be argued that human society has never, and if left to itself, can never realize this heavenly prediction. The "desire of all nations," the speaker will affirm, cannot be attained apart from the divine purposes.

Remarkable both for its crowded sessions and a spirit of optimism and new determination, the sixtieth anniversary convention of the W.C.T.U., held in Cleveland last month, climaxed in the launching a five-point, five-year $500,000 programme to culminate in 1939, the centenary of the birth of Frances Willard, and at once to embrace a nationwide plan of education for youth and adults, along with unwavering championship of legislation looking toward the goal of national abolition of the liquor traffic.

SKATING RINK EVIDENCE ENDS

Court Reserves Judgment in Dispute Over Control of Premises Here

The trial of J. A. Gauthier vs. Rejane Gauthier was concluded in the County Court, here, last evening, Judge P. S. Lampan reserving his judgment. The plaintiff, represented by W. C. Moresby, K.C., entered a claim for money which he held to be due him in connection with the conduct of the roller rink here. He claimed a half interest in the profits with $50 a week as payment for the services of himself, his wife and their two sons in connection with the operation of the rink.

For the defendant, the niece of the plaintiff, who is a fancy skater, F. C. Elliott, denied any such arrangement having been contemplated, and for the defendant offered to settle with the payment of $50 in addition to other moneys that had been already paid.

In connection with the case there had been an alleged assault made with a brush upon the defendant, and this was met with counter charges. The assault aspect of the case will not enter very much into the decision, it was made clear by the court. Judge Lampan said that he thought in this respect "the honors were about even."

His Honor further intimated that in connection with the display of temper by the two parties to the case, he felt that they "both blew up easily," but in compensation it was "a good thing that they did not remain so very long."

DEFENDANT'S CASE

The evidence of the defendant, Miss Gauthier, was that she came to Victoria with a traveling company. Her engagement had ended in Vancouver. She arrived here on Saturday, April 20, and on the following day was introduced to the owners of the rink property.

On April 22, the plaintiff, whom she had not seen since she was a little girl, invited her to move to his house. She was invited as a guest. She denied that her uncle had anything to do with the negotiations for the rink. She had acted in the matter herself as this was a business with which she was familiar.

The plaintiff never made any demand upon her for board at his house, for rent for the auto, or for wages for himself and family until after he commenced action.

RENTAL OF PREMISES
A. E. Chilton testified that he had conducted the negotiations for renting the rink premises which belonged to H. B. Olson and the Jones estate. He said that his negotiations were with Miss Gauthier. After she had been around several times, he saw the plaintiff, J. A. Gauthier. In the matter, who said he was her uncle and wanted to see that she was properly treated.

Witness said he had first suggested $60 a month as rent, then agreed that he might get it down to $50, and finally agreed to $40 on the understanding that the fixing up of the place would be done by the Miss Gauthier.

Little Pamela was not very well so mummy asked the doctor to call in to see her.

"She certainly looks rather pale," he said. "Let's me see your tongue, dear."

Pamela showed just the tiniest tip of a small pink tongue.

"Oh," laughed the doctor, "I must see more than that, little girl; put it right out."

"T-t-c-can't," faltered the child.

"You can't?" echoed the doctor.

"And why not?"

"'Cause it's joined on to me at the back, and it won't come out!"

What Today Means

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., and from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Social activities are very likely to receive a great deal more consideration and thought on this December 15 than business. Money will be freely circulated; mostly, however, in places providing entertainment or food. It might pay you to throw aside all sense of financial cares and responsibilities, so as to relax mentally as well as physically. Diversion on this day will probably enable you to face the coming week with a renewed vigor and clarity of thought. This is an auspicious day for entertaining and for the acceptance of invitations. Careless handling of money and jewelry is apt to be prevalent, so if you would avoid a loss, exercise due precaution with both. Married and engaged couples, as well as the love-stricken, will do well to remember it "takes two to make a quarrel," and to avoid arguing is the best preventive. If a woman, and December 15 is your birthday, you are not very much inclined to worry, which happy faculty will enable you to face most issues successfully. Your mental attitude should bring you a great deal of happiness. You have a great appreciation of things of artistic worth. Through the dexterous use of your hands you may make a great deal of money or a reputation for some worthwhile accomplishment. Music, painting, sculpturing, writing, and interior decorating are some of the mediums through which you might gain recognition. A husband may be essential for your complete contentment. The child born on December 15 is likely, when it passes through adolescence, to display a decided talent for a definite line of activity. It might be a great mistake to try to divert its mind in another direction. If a man, and December 15 is your natal day, you have the ability to accomplish whatever you undertake, even if it requires a good deal of patience and time. You are at times inclined to place too much confidence in strangers. Artistic, beautiful things appeal to you. Be careful your very good taste does not lead you to become supercritical, for it might cause a very dear friend to become offended. Love may to some extent dominate your personal affairs, but it will be worth while making any sacrifice you might be required to make. Military life, mineralogy, astronomy, painting, journalism and engineering are excellent professions from which to select a career. (Copyright, 1934, by Bell Syndicate, Inc.) rooms on Mills Road. All interested in entering the tournament are asked to register their names with Mr. W. A. Beswick. Entries may be made up to the last minute before play starts. Each couple plays every other couple entered in the tournament, four hands. Play will take place twice a month, on the first and third Wednesdays. The winners will be known as champions of the Spanish Peninsula and will be awarded a handsome silver challenge cup.

SCRAMMAGING
FOR CARGOES

Competition Keen for Philippine Sugar and Japanese Silk Freights

Five large Japanese steamship companies are scrambling after Philippine sugar and Japanese raw silk to ship to America. Consequently, keen freight competition exists between vessels of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Osaka Shosen Kaisha, Kureha Kaisha, Mitsui Bussan Kaisha and Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha. All these concerns are active between the Orient and New York, states Trans-Pacific, and shipping has been affected by this fight and is gradually sinking.

There are fifty-seven Japanese cargo boats working the New York service by way of Panama. They are six regular N.Y.K. ships, eight O.S.K. ships, four Kureha K.K. ships, twelve Kawasaki K.K. ships and twelve M.B.K. ships. In addition, Kureha Kisen has nine additional cargo vessels and Mitsui Bussan six, making a total of fifty-seven. This is an overwhelmingly large number, compared to fifteen ships belonging to three foreign companies, the Blue Funnel, the Dollar and the States Lines.

Transportation of Philippine sugar to America was once carried in large volume by foreign ships than Japanese. In March, 1933, the number of Japanese ships aggregating 290,000 tons, but in cargo boats working this service was thirty-two. March, this year, twelve months later, the number was forty-six, totaling 420,000 tons.

EXPECTED TO FAIL

The export volume of sugar is expected to fall to 800,000 tons in 1935. Of this, 630,000 tons have been contracted for, but this is to fill only one-half the total space of about sixty Japanese and foreign ships in competition. When new Japanese Diesel engine freighters, now in

FIGHT AGAINST TIGERS OF SEA

Reflecting the shipping business activity, the Japanese shipbuilding industry has been prosperous during the last decade. According to the Communications Ministry there were 104 vessels aggregating 143,016 gross tons in Japanese shipyards at the end of July last, while some twenty-nine additional ships were to be commenced.

Naval Forces Co-operating in "War" on Timor Sea Sharks

Naval vessels stationed at Hongkong, including H.M.S. Hermes and the destroyers of the First Destroyer Flotilla, recently reaching Great Britain's Far Eastern naval base, may participate in the unique war against the hundreds of thousands of sharks which infest the Timor Sea.

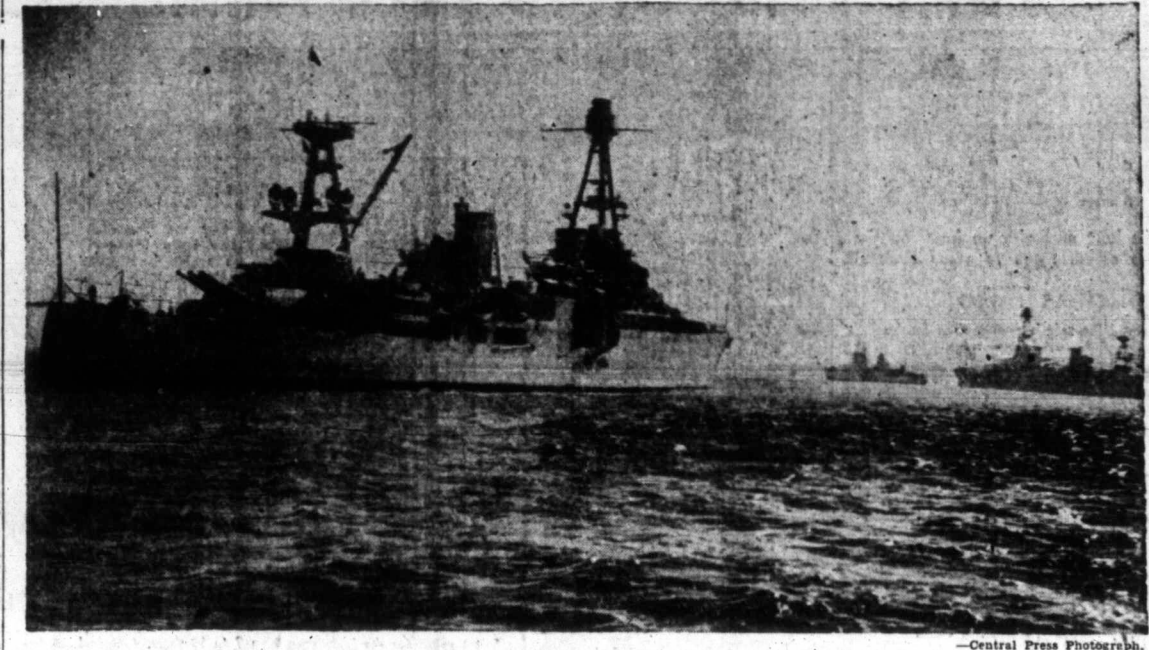

An intensive campaign is about to be inaugurated, when British, Netherlands and Portuguese warships will co-operate in an effort to permanently drive away the countless sharks that thrive in this breeding ground.

Forty-six Timor rajahs will join in the drive. Aerial and marine troops, as well as depth bombs, will be used in the war against the sharks.

This will be the first intensive drive made by man against the "tigers of the sea." Plans for the "war" were formulated following the reports made by several of the competitors in the London to Melbourne air race, who said that flying low over the Timor Sea was nothing but a nightmare.

"It was anything but pleasant," said one of the competitors, "to look

Armada Rides at Anchor in San Francisco Bay

Scores of the battleships, destroyers, mine layers and supply boats, hospital ships and airplane carriers, which make up Uncle Sam's battle fleet in Pacific waters, passed through the Golden Gate into San Francisco Bay, in spectacular enfilade, recently, for a week's visit. Thirty-three thousand officers and men immediately made themselves at home in the cities of the Bay region. The view shows part of the fleet as it appeared at anchor in midstream.

LINERS SAILING
OUTBOUND TODAY

Empress of Japan for Orient and Emma Alexander for California
Due to Get Away

Two liners will be here today to take on passengers and cargo. At 4 o'clock, this afternoon, the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Japan will arrive alongside Rithet Pier, from Vancouver, to embark travelers for Hawaii and the Orient, pick up mails and some light cargo. She is posted to sail at 5:30 o'clock.

At 10 o'clock tonight the S.S. Emma Alexander, of Pacific Steamship Lines, will arrive from Seattle, and will pick up a number of Island and Mainland travelers going south to California points, as well as some cargo for San Francisco. The Emma Alexander is scheduled to sail at midnight.

According to advices received at the local office of Pacific Steamship Lines, yesterday, the S.S. Ruth Alexander, which is now in drydock at San Francisco, following a collision with a ferryboat, on San Francisco Bay, earlier in the week, will resume her schedule from San Francisco, on Tuesday next, and will be here at her usual time on Thursday night next.

To load lumber for the United Kingdom, the Norwegian freighter Bronnøy will be at Ogden Point Piers today, according to King Brothers. The firm also reports the freighter Henry S. Grove at James Island, from Gulf ports. She is discharging nitrate.

PLANS PROGRESS FOR AIR ROUTES

No Passengers Will Be Carried Over Pacific Until Service Is Considered Safe

Increased interest is being displayed in the development of regular airplane services between the Pacific Coast and Orient countries, via the Hawaiian Islands. Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith has blazed the trail, and the technical details are being supervised by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Two routes have been tentatively outlined, according to Kingsford-Smith; one is by way of Wake Island and the other via Midway Island, both United States territory. Tentative plans call for the use of huge forty-passenger Sikorsky amphibian planes. Ships would be anchored along the way in case of forced landings, and no passengers would be carried until the route had been repeatedly flown in all kinds of weather.

The Sikorsky planes are very similar to the twin-engined ones employed by the Inter-Island Airways of Honolulu, which have flown a total of 125,470 air miles; 13,153 flying hours, carrying 47,869 passengers without a single fatality or injury. This is the first anniversary of the company. During the past five years, the company, using twin-motored Sikorsky amphibians, has maintained a service (daily except Sunday) connecting Honolulu with Hawaii, Maui, Kauai and other outlying Hawaiian Islands.

BIG BREAKWATER CONSIDERED NOW

Japanese Engineer Suggests Building Sea Wall in Kitan Straits to Protect Ports

Dr. Araki, chief of the engineering department of the Kobe City Office, announces that the best way of rendering the Kinki district absolutely safe from tidal waves or high seas, is to build a big breakwater in the Kitan Straits, says The Japan Chronicle.

Dr. Araki says that all the breakwaters now planned in Osaka and Kobe ports, and in various other places in the Hanshin district, are faulty, inasmuch as it is quite obvious that breakwaters in Osaka and the Hanshin district will not be of much use if big tidal waves come in from the Pacific Ocean, as was illustrated recently.

According to Dr. Araki's idea, a wide passage for steamers should be made in the middle of this breakwater. A sum of about 80,000,000 yen will be quite sufficient to materialize the plan. By constructing this breakwater just at the Kitan entrance to the Inland Sea, the force of any tidal waves will be greatly weakened before reaching to Hanshin district. The only difficulty lies, he states, in the fact that the breakwater will cause fast tidal currents like that in the Naruto Straits. This particular point is now being studied.

ROMANCE IS FINE CRAFTHongkong-Built Brigantine
Will Cross Pacific to Victoria Next Spring

The brigantine Romance, on which Captain E. F. Green, former staff captain of the Ss. Empress of Asia, hopes to sail from Hongkong to Victoria, was launched from the slipway of A. King, in the former city, on the morning of November 21, according to The South China Morning Post. The christening ceremony was performed by Mrs. D. Drummond.

When the ship is completely rigged, the journal continues, Captain Green, together with his son, Philip, will sail to Manila and back for a trial trip. She was to be ready for this test on December 10, and subsequently the more hazardous passage of the Pacific Ocean is to be attempted.

LUXURIOUS FITTINGS

The construction work of the new craft has been splendidly carried out by the builders. The Romance is a sturdy vessel and is forty-five feet overall, with a wide beam of fourteen feet, six inches. She has three state-rooms, two bathrooms and a main saloon. The luxurious fittings include Chinese carved panels in the dining-room and a carved table.

Four kinds of wood were employed in completing the Romance. For the hull and deck, teak was utilized; yackel for keel, stem and stern posts and frames; Oregon pine for the masts and spars; and camphor wood for the figurehead, which is named Frances, the Christian name of Captain Green's wife. The mainmast is thirty-six feet in height and the foremast thirty-four feet. All fastenings are carried out in brass and every frame has a double cutting. The engine is an Alfa Craig product, manufactured in London.

PAPERS SPONSOR FOOD SHOW TODAY

The Daily Colonist and The Daily Times Presenting Special Matinee This Morning

The lobbies of the Capitol and Dominion Theatres will present an unusual appearance this morning at 10 o'clock as hundreds of children arrive, bearing a toy or some article of food as their admission to the special children's matinee, which is being held at each of these theatres. These toy and food matinees are sponsored by The Daily Colonist and The Daily Times, designed to aid in the drive for a happier Christmas in every Victoria home. The proceeds, which will undoubtedly amount to tons of food stuffs and hundreds of toys, will be distributed among the needy families of Victoria, thus assuring many youngsters, who perforce would otherwise be forgotten that Santa Claus does exist.

The toys will be distributed through the Boy Scouts' Toy Hospital, while the food will go to swell the donations to the City Christmas Hamper Fund.

PLAYHOUSE The Wallace Beery Theatre of the Navajo Indians now makes his screen debut. He is "Ganna Begay" or "Wanderer's Son," a tribal Medicine Man on the reservation near Cameron, Arizona. He was chosen for an important "heavy" role in "Laughing Boy," Indian drama starring Ramon Novarro, and now being shown at the Playhouse Theatre.

COLUMBIA Phil Regan, who plays a crook in "Housewife," the Warner Bros. picture which closes today at the Columbia Theatre, was once leading tenor of the Columbia Broadcasting chain. Before that he was a police officer on the New York police force.

DOMINION A rich musical treat is in store for all music lovers and others, who visit the Dominion Theatre. Jan Klepura, the famous Polish tenor, is paying a return visit to this popular house, not in "Tell Me Tonight," in which he delighted last year, but in a new "musical" equally rich and appealing, entitled "My Song for You."

EMPIRE "Darktown Scandals," the mammoth musical revue now at the Empire Theatre, will appear on the stage for the last times today. This entire company of fifty persons is just completing a successful tour of Canada and the United States. Ida Cox, well-known blues singer, is featured.

Quintuplets Get New Doctor for Time

Holidaying for the first time since the arrival of the Dionne quintuplets, Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo posed with Dr. G. P. Hamblin, senior interne at the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, for the photographer, before Dr. Hamblin left for Callander and the Dafeo Hospital to keep his eye on the five sisters, while Dr. Dafeo spends a few weeks in New York, Baltimore and Washington. Dr. Dafeo is on the left and Dr. Hamblin on the right.

SILVER SLIPPERS

CHAPTER LX.

Giles' head was high as he flung out his fearless challenge. The light of the fire showed his clear-cut features, ruffled hair, his brilliant, scornful glance, and more than all, that boyish grace of figure. Faintly Drew was aware of the thing which had stirred Joan to exaltation—the king is dead . . . a prince reigns . . .

The thought saddened him. If he can't have her, you shan't. "Just what do you mean to do?" "Make you keep your promise." "I shall keep it. In a few days she leaves for a long journey. She will see many people, many men will fall in love with her. And how can I know she will come back to me? I must take my chance. I am taking it solely because of my promise to you. Do you think if it were not for that, I would let her go?"

He spoke the truth and Drew knew it. Then, without pause, Giles went on to say things which seemed incredible. "Look here, Hallam, we both love her. And perhaps all this bother for you than for me—al- though heaven knows I find it hard enough. Perhaps some other man will win her and you and I will have to stand back and see her marry him. Well, then, let's not bring into it the sordidness of a stupid quarrel. She's so sweet . . . so dear . . . you know it . . . as I know it . . ."

A long silence out of which Drew said, hoarsely, "You're right, I love her." "Then make her happy." "You mean I shall let her marry you?" "Yes." "You are asking a lot." "I know." "Drew's face was as white as chalk. "I can't live without her. I don't want to live . . . He got to his feet, unsteadily, like a drunken man. "Where's your telephone?" he demanded. "I'll call her up."

Giles stood staring at him. "Call her?" "Yes. Why not? I'll make a grand gesture. Give her to you . . . His laugh was wild. "Where's your telephone?" he repeated, then saw it on the table and went toward it.

He asked for long distance, gave Joan's number, hung up the receiver and waited, and Giles on the hearth rug waited. Presently the bell rang and Drew answered it. "Joan? . . . This is Drew Hallam . . . I'm with Giles Armiger on his island . . . We're staging a great scene of re- junction . . . I'm to release him from his promise and let the two of you be happy ever after. And I'm to marry Rose . . . Will you wish me happiness . . . happiness, Joan?"

Giles took a step forward. He felt as if he must stop that tortured voice from speaking . . . that wild and tortured voice . . . But it went on. "So everything is . . . settled. Wedding bells for all of us—Nancy married, you and Giles married, Rose and I— he rang off suddenly, and stood swaying.

Giles went up to him and laid a hand on his shoulder, "My dear fellow." Drew flung off the hand, "Don't. You'll make her happy, and I couldn't. But I hope the gods will rob me of life before her wedding day . . ."

Joan kissed her, but said nothing. Like it? When her heart was singing! She was walking with the children through the pine woods back of the home on the bluff. There had been a farewell feast at Penelope's and presently she and Giles would be leaving for their long journey. She had chosen to have a last few moments alone with these little lovers of hers. "My dears," she said, as she finally took leave of them, "you mustn't forget me. And when I come back, you must both visit me on my island. It is a wonderful island, like something in a book."

A fairy book? The shining child whispered. "Yes," Joan kissed her again, and stood watching them and waving until they were out of sight. As she turned to go back she saw Giles coming toward her. When he reached her, he tucked his arm in hers. "Let's walk a bit," he said, "I haven't had a minute alone with you since this morning."

There was a golden light in the wood, snow on the ground, and the trunks of the trees made black stripes against a deep blue sky. As they stood on the edge of the bluff, the sea stretched before them in a sapphire sheet. Yet the horizon line was blurred by the onward moving line of mist. The air was mild for a Winter's day, and as they descended the hill, Joan unfastened the fur about her throat. "How warm it is," she said.

Giles carried her fur for her. "It gives me a queer feeling," he said, "looking after your belongings. I've your purse in one pocket, a pair of gloves in another, and this fur is like a part of you, with its fragrance." Her breath was quick. "You see how soon you've begun to carry my burdens . . ."

The moor, as they came to it, was all mauve and silver shadows under the sun. "How beautiful it is," Joan said. "Everything is beautiful," Giles lifted her hand to his lips, "but most of all the thought of all the years together."

The years together! Herself and Giles! Joan could scarcely believe it true. There had been the night when she had been waked by the telephone. She had slept so soundly she was not sure the bell had rung. She sat up in bed and listened. The room was illumined only by a tiny lighted flower of rosy glass which glowed in the dimness. It was snowing heavily outside, and the world seemed wrapped in a spell of silence. Then the telephone rang again, and she rose and went to it.

Drew's voice came to her, that wild, ragged voice . . . telling her he was going to make her happy. That she was to marry Giles . . . that he was to marry Rose . . . Would she wish him happiness? Happiness? As he talked she had had a shivering sense of fear. What was Drew doing there with Giles? And why had not Giles spoken instead of Drew?

Even the knowledge that she was free to marry her lover had not relieved the horror of the moment, so that when Drew rang off, she had stumbled across the rugs to the door which led to her maid's room. "Farley . . ."

The older woman came to her at once. "My lamb?" "I—Joan began to sob uncontrollably . . . found herself telling Farley all about it. "I don't understand . . . I am . . . frightened . . . Farley soothed her. "He has left you free to marry your own true love, my darling . . ."

And now, leaning on her young husband's arm she said with a sigh, "Poor Drew." "Why think of him?" "If only he could be happy." "He'll find a sort of happiness with Rose." "Will he?" "Yes. They are two of a kind. They'll play the game . . . gallantly, perhaps . . . who knows?"

As they stood looking out to sea the fog caught them, drifting at first in thin veils, then thickening, until at last they were shut away from all the world. "Dear heart," Giles whispered, "we belonged to each other from the beginning, you know that?" "Yes." Oh, how safe she felt . . . with Giles. His tenderness . . . They turned presently and made their way upward through the spectral mists—mists which showed here and there a gleam of silver, as if a knight in armor rode among them, or a king . . . But Joan, unaware of that wistful escort, walked on, unconscious and serene. Life was before her. The future held no fears.

(The End)

The bus was about to start when a very stout woman rounded the corner some twenty yards away, waving her umbrella frantically. She did her very best to run, but her size kept her pace down to a mere shuffle.

The conductor waited patiently, his finger on the bell-push, and when the lady, now puffing hard, was still a couple of yards away he called out in a reproachful voice: "Come on, Ma—you ain't trying!"

LIBRARY HELPS SCHOOL STUDIES

Total of 14,825 Books Circulated Among Students During the Past Year

Some indication of the important part that the Victoria Public Library plays in school life was disclosed yesterday, in a report, filed with the school board by Trustee W. T. Strath.

It was shown that a total of 14,825 books had been circulated among the school children this year, and the preponderance of books taken out was not fiction. This latter phase of the report was particularly gratifying to school board officials.

Another meeting of the trustees will be held before the end of the year. There will be a final session on December 28, when business will be concluded for the year. The schools will close on December 21, for the Christmas recess, studies being resumed on January 7.

CAR LICENCES ARE PREPARED

New Auto Plates to Be Ready Feb. 1, With Month to Secure Them

British Columbia motorists will be able to obtain their 1935 motor licence plates in February next year, twenty-eight days before the new motor licence year goes into effect on March 1. If 1934 drivers' licences are carried on the dashboard, the new plates can be put into use as soon as obtained, officials of the motor licence branch explained yesterday.

This year, there was some confusion between old and new licensing periods, due to a change-over in the system. Next year, the Province will have got down to the new motor licence year, without exceptions, this being from March 1, 1935.

NO LEeway
The Provincial motor licence offices plan to commence issuing the 1935 plates at the first of February. After February 28, all motorists must be properly licensed to take the road, as there will be no leeway given, it was emphasized.

The former motor licence year was from January 1 to December 31, inclusive. Interim licences had to be issued this year to bridge the two-months' gap before commencement of the new licence year.

So far there has been no official intimation of any change in the rates for the next twelve-month period.

An old Negro was asked what breed of chickens he considered the best. "All kinds has dere merits," he replied. "De white am de easiest to find, but de black am de easiest to conceal."

BLUEBIRDS SWAMP ADANACS IN BOXLA FIXTURE

Demands Drastic Action Be Taken Against Stewart

New York Americans' Owner Petitions Hockey Moguls to Banish Montreal Player From Game as a Result of Attack on Dede Klein—Simpson Has Different Attitude

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (CP).—Young Bill Dwyer, on behalf of New York Americans, tonight was determined to present the National Hockey League with a petition demanding that Nels Stewart, centre of Boston Bruins, be put out of the game. Manager Joe Simpson was less than forthcoming in his demands. He wasn't, in fact, sure he would demand anything. The match penalty nailed on Stewart, following his attack on Dede Klein, young American forward, in the third period, at the Garden, last night, and the fact that the case will come up for judgment by President Frank Calder, seemed to comply with the general Joe's ideas of sufficient punishment.

"It's all in the game," said Simpson. "Why should I ask to have Stewart put out of the game? Frank Patrick, the Bruins' manager, came to see me afterwards and told me how sorry he was for what had happened."

NO ILL FEELING
Dede didn't display any signs of rancor or ill feeling in the dressing-room. Asked how the argument with Stewart had started, he just muttered, "Aw forget it," and continued trying to comb his hair without touching the deep cut on his scalp or straining his dislocated shoulder.

The affray, which turned a dull game into one of the most furiously-contested affairs of the season, resulted from a mild roughing match. As Klein and Stewart were waved off, the former rapped his rival with his stick. Other players intervened and things apparently had calmed down when Stewart swung his club so hard he broke it over Klein's head, and then started dodging as Red Coon went after him the same way. It took ten minutes before things were settled enough to continue play, and Klein was unconscious even longer.

No substitutions for the penalized players were allowed for five minutes and before the teams were at full strength again the Bruins had staged an uprising that scored two goals and tied the score at 3-3. They couldn't keep it up, however, and Dave Schirmer netted the winning goal for the Americans in the overtime period.

TRADE IN SIGHT
The bitter battle was even more surprising because before the game the teams were on good enough terms to engineer a trade involving three front-line players. The Americans for Heppy Emms, who played for them two years ago, and Ob Heximer, in exchange for Red Jackson, who has been out on option to minor league teams this season.

Y.M.C.A. Coach and Physical Director Placed on Track Executive

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14 (CP).—John Muter has been returned to the presidency of the British Columbia Track and Field Association, a position he has held since the association was organized.

Dan McKenzie, New Westminster was re-elected vice-president, and Archie McKinnon, Victoria, was named second vice-president. Len Osborne and Ralph Thomas, Vancouver, were re-elected honorary treasurer and honorary secretary, respectively.

Council members are Dave Shirley, Police; Colonel H. Logan, University of British Columbia, and Sherwood Robson, South Vancouver.

Chief topic of discussion was the recent British Empire Games trials in Hamilton, to which British Columbia sent a team of ten. An expenditure of $2,500 was necessary for the trip, of which a $100 deficiency still exists.

ASKS FOR MEET
Applications were received from Victoria and New Westminster with regard to the staging of an indoor provincial track and field championship meet, both applications being left in abeyance. Mr. Muter spoke of the necessity of promoting the sport through indoor meets.

Frank Filmer made public a letter from Thomas D. Lord, secretary of the Quebec Amateur Track and Field Association, in which it was stated the Dominion indoor track and field championships would be held in Montreal on March 8, 1935.

Three new clubs have affiliated with the British Columbia body in the past year, Powell River, South Vancouver and the Police Mutual Benefit.

Medals were awarded for junior Olympic winners: Twelve-pound shot, second, Ian McLeish; javelin, second, E. McDonald; pole vault, third, R. Innes; 100 yards, third, T. Williams; sportsmanship, M. Bassani, Mission.

FULLER BEATS PHILADELPHIA BOXER EASILY

Boston Italian Scores Fine Victory Over Eddie Cool—Tei Ken Wins

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—Sammy Fuller, squat Boston Italian, advanced a step nearer a shot at Champion Barney Ross' lightweight crown, tonight, by scoring a well-earned ten-round decision over clever Eddie Cool, of Philadelphia, in the main bout at Madison Square Garden. Fuller weighed 138, and Cool 137.

A crowd of 7,500 saw the Bostonian warm up after a slow start, and outpunch the highly-touted Philadelphia. It was the first Garden set-back for Cool.

Cool proved the superior boxer. But Fuller was the aggressor throughout and got home with the most telling punches.

TEI KEN WINS
Joe Tei Ken, 117 pounds, a speedy little Korean, stoned somewhat for his recent defeat at the hands of Baby Quinlan, by decisively drubbing Richard La Brandt, 114½, of Brooklyn, in an eight-rounder. Tei won every round.

In the ten-round semi-final, John Henry Lewis, California Negro lightweight, who holds a couple of decisions over Maxie Rosenbloom, dethroned light-heavy champion, breezed through to an easy triumph over Tony Shucro, of Boston. Lewis weighed 174, and Shucro 179½.

Lewis Gains in Big Seven Group

The leading scorers of the National Hockey League, ranked, today, in the Big Seven, gathered a total of seven points, Thursday night, and, in the process, Herb Lewis and Larry Aurie, of Detroit, jumped into the standings, and Tommy Cook, of Chicago, and Johnny Sorrel, of Detroit, were knocked out. Lewis had the best night of them all, scoring one goal and three assists, in Detroit's 11-2 defeat of St. Louis Eagles.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14 (CP).—Yale University's defence was decisively pierced in the third period, here, tonight, as McGill University ran up a 5-1 count in the first game of

Transferred to Victoria City

HARRY YOUSON

WHO for years patrolled right wing for Victoria West in the first division of the local football league, has forsaken the green-and-white-sweatered eleven for the plain red-jerseyed Victoria City squad. The Youson transfer is the second important one of the season, the first being the switching of Wally Rowe, star goalie, from Saanich Thistles to Victoria City. Youson will play his first game for the City this afternoon, at Heywood Avenue grounds, against his old team-mates. Although still in his early twenties, Harry has had plenty of senior experience, being a member of several "rep" elevens. He is fast, plays his position well, can cross a ball beautifully, and, therefore, should fit into the fast and aggressive front line of the City machine.

the season for the mythical North American college hockey title.

Jean Paul scored two goals. Duff Gordon Crutchfield and Wiggle got the others for McGill. Robinson, Yale's hard-working right-winger, secured the Bulldogs' only goal.

It was Yale's second visit here, the 1933 game resulting in a 6-1 victory for McGill.

BLUE RIBBONS FACE DE MOLAY SQUAD TONIGHT

Formidable Sound City Cagers Will Show at High Gym

Local Quintette Will Have Hands Full Against Smart Seattle Hoopsters in Main Attraction — Art Chapman Back in Line-Up — Colonist Will Tackle Lake Hill

Confident and reported to be in near perfect condition, Victoria's 1934-35 edition of the once Canadian titleholders, the Blue Ribbons, will go on view again tonight at the High School Gymnasium, when they march on the court to clash with the smart De Molay quintette, of Seattle, in the feature attraction of the Victoria and District Basketball League card. The curtain will rise for the first game at 7:10, with the Unites meeting Maroons, and an hour later, the Colonist will face the league-leading Lake Hill squad, in the men's "B" division, in an important argument. The main attraction is expected to get under way about 8:20.

dropped a narrow decision to the victors, and therefore, revenge will be sweet in the local camp this evening.

GOING AFTER TITLE

Bringing in these outside clubs for exhibitions is the only way the Ribbons can get competition and experience in preparation for the British Columbia play-offs against the Mainland winners. There is no question about it, the Capital City lads are going out after that Dominion title again, and when the final series gets under way, it will be no surprise if Victorians are watching the Ribbons playing for the crown on a local floor. The Canadian final comes to the West this year, and if the Ribbons are successful, the series will be staged right here.

Happy news was received in the Victoria camp on Friday, when it was officially announced that Art Chapman, hero of many a hectic cage tussle, and smart pivot player, would return to the team after a prolonged absence due to a severe hand injury, which occurred in a Rugby fixture. Chapman will not play the full game, but is expected to open at the tip-off berth. Flanking him on the wings will be "Red" Martin and "Porky" Andrews, a rapidly improving youngster, whose scoring ability and aggressive type of play has helped the Ribbons considerably. On the reserve forward list will be Johnny Craig and Alex McKeachie. Guarding the local basket will be none other than towering "Chuck" Chapman and Doug Peden, with Shepherd as spare.

VISITORS POWERFUL

De Molay boasts of a tall, heavy and well-balanced squad, one which is highly rated in the Sound City this year. To date they have been chosen to win the league honors, which means they have a much stronger outfit than a year ago, when they ended up in fourth position. Their starting line-up has not been announced, but Joe Murray, six feet four inches and 215 pounds, will probably be working at centre against Chapman. The rest of the team with height and weight follows: Crandell Neisger, five feet eleven inches, 160 pounds; Bob Dickie, six feet one inch, 165 pounds; Carl Johnson, five feet eleven inches, 155 pounds; Vic Calderon, six feet two inches, 180 pounds, and Emerson Launsberry, six feet, 175 pounds.

GIVES WARNING ABOUT RAIDING

AMHERST, N.S., Dec. 14 (CP).—Plainly worried about the trend of events in the provinces by the sea, President James E. Wry, of the Maritime Hockey Association, today warned clubs in the Maritime Mercantile Hockey League against further raids on leagues in other provinces of Canada.

"Teams in the Montreal senior group are asking the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for protection against raids upon their clubs by Maritime clubs, stating that several of their leading scorers have been approached by Maritime representatives," President Wry stated.

"I wish to warn both Montreal players and the Maritime clubs that no such move will be allowed, and that a player having this year participated in one branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association most certainly cannot participate in another branch this season."

An effort to straighten the tangled skein of hockey in the East will be made at special meetings of the Maritime Hockey League and the Maritime Mercantile Hockey League on Tuesday, when argument over four players recently brought in from Winnipeg is expected to prove the fireworks.

GIANTS READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Bill Terry Will Stake Chances on Club as It Now Stands

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—Bill Terry has about decided to stake his chances in next year's National League pennant race on New York Giants as they now stand.

Today he indicated he will forget about plans to remodel further the team which failed him so completely on the home stretch last Fall, and stand pat on the talent he got in his four off-season deals.

"I think I'm set now," he said, today. "We got George Davis back at the Polo Grounds, where he belongs, and that gives us a good man for centre field if you think Hank Leiber doesn't hit. Mark Koenig is a good utility infielder, at home in any position. Leo Chagon and Allyn Stout will make us good men for relief pitching assignments. I am counting on great things from Dick Bartell at short."

KRAZY KAT By HerrimanTHE TUTTS . . . By Crawford YoungHow It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"ALL BALLED UP"—IT STARTED WITH A HORSE

Nowadays, people get "all balled up" in numberless predicaments, the phrase being generally used to indicate either a condition of mental confusion or some physical situation from which one can, with difficulty, be extricated.

The expression comes to us from the parlance of the country, as applied originally to horses.

Years ago, when our roads were not the gliding rinks of the present, snowploughs cleaned rather unevenly. As a result, horses that traveled them would soon get their shoes clogged with hard-packed snow pellets, which caused them to slip and stumble.

The driver would then have to get down and clean out the horseshoes which had got "all balled up" with the snow.

Edouard Branly, the French savant, who has just celebrated his nineteenth birthday, always uses two sticks for walking across the road.

"Not that I need them," he says. "But if I only used one, motorists would take me for some young blood, able to dash out of their way like a racehorse. With two sticks I can cross the road comfortably."
